Modern Theater Planned For Central Broadway

Harry Lazarus, Well Known Theatrical Man, Buys Broadway Frontage of 102 Feet and Cedar Street Frontage of 114 Feet—Took Title to Property Today—Work to Start in May on Theater.

Harry Lazarus, the well known theatrical man who operates the Auditorium Theater on Pine Grove avenue and is also owner of the Pine Hills Theater in Albany, has taken title to property on Broadway and Cedar street for the purpose of erecting on central Broadway, a thoroughly moden theater with a seating capacity of two thousand. Work on the new theater it is expected will start in May. The property was purchased from Peter A. Burnes, treasurer of the United Hudson Company who was represented in the transferring of title by Judge A. T. Clearwater. Mr. Lazarus was represented by Judge Harry E. Schirick. The transaction was carried on through W. Arthur Farrar, the local real estate broker.

The property to which Mr. Lazarus has taken title has a Broadway frontage of 102 feet and a depth of 124 feet. It is located adjoining the Kingston Gas & Electric Company and takes in the Raffaldi, Deegan and Conway properties. On Cedar street the property has a frontage of 114 feet and a depth of 164 feet, and takes in the four houses owned by John T. Cahill.

Mr. Lazarus stated today that the actual work of demolishing the four houses on Cedar street and the buildings on Broadway would be started about the first of May, and that the work of erecting the proposed theater would follow the demolishing of the present buildings on the site.

Under the plans as outlined by Mr. Lazarus the Broadway frontage will be utilized for the erection of a three or four story building with four stores on the ground floor and the upper floors used for office purposes. The lobby leading to the theater, which will be located in the rear, will also be on Broadway. The stage entrance to the new theater will be on Cedar street. The stage will also be located on Cedar street. The theater will be of entirely modern construction throughout and the stage will be built large enough to stage modern New York city productions, and will be so arranged that not only legitimate shows may be produced but also vaudeville and movies.

The location for the proposed theater is an ideal one as it is convenient not only to the trolley lines, but also to the central bus terminal and West Shore railroad station.

The plans for the theater have not been completed as yet, but Mr. Lazarus, now that he has taken title to the property, expects to proceed rapidly, and to have the specifications ready for the contractors on as early a date as possible.

At the present time new productions intended for a showing on Broadway in New York are first tried out in Albany, and Mr. Lazarus believes that with a modern theater here, that Kingston audiences will also have the opportunity of viewing a New York production before it reaches the white lights of Broadway.

The deal was consummated through the agency of W. Arthur Farrar. City Judge Harry T. Schirick acted as counsel for Harry Lazarus. It is understood that Mr. Farrar will be connected with the undertaking as publicity manager and will have charge of the renting of the stores and offices.

Postal Salary Bill Thursday

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 16.—With the administration's support, the Senate today passed a "special order" providing for formal consideration of the omnibus postal salary bill next Thursday.

This action taken by a vote of 56 to 10, gave the postal measure which provides $68,000,000 salary increases for post office employes and raises the revenue from higher postal rates, a preferred position over all legislation.

LANDIS STILL SILENT ON PROSECUTION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 1.—Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis declined to state today whether or not he would provide District Attorney Banton of New York with the necessary evidence to prosecute O'Connell and Dolan for their part in the alleged deal to bribe Heine Sand, Philadelphia short stop, at the climax of the 1924 season.

Banton had indicated he would not take the initiative but was willing to prosecute if supported.

"I have no comment to make, none at all," was all that Landis would say.

Judge Sets Aside $1,000 Verdict

Negligence Not Proved Against New York, Ontario & Western Railroad When Coach Door Slammed Shut, Injuring Girl's Finger.

Supreme Court Justice Ellis B. Staley has handed down a decision in the matter of Alice Hoffman, an infant, against the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad, an action tried at the December term of the supreme court in this city. The action was brought to recover for injuries sustained by the girl when her hand was caught in a door on a train operated over the company's railroad. Her finger was injured so that it was necessary to amputate a small portion of it.

The case was tried before the court and jury and a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of $1,000 was returned. Motion was made for a nonsuit and dismissal of the complaint, upon which the court reserved decision. Judge William D. Cunningham with LeRoy Lounsberry of counsel appeared for plaintiff and Philip Elting and Howard Chipp of counsel appeared for defendant railroad.

By the decision of Judge Staley, an order may be entered setting aside the verdict and granting defendant a new trial and denying motion of defendant to dismiss the complaint.

After reviewing the case Judge Staley in his memorandum says "* * * taking the facts most favorable to the plaintiff, it appears that the plaintiff was a passenger on a train of the defendant on July 3, 1921; that while the train was proceeding on its way between the stations of Mamakating and Summitville, and while the plaintiff was standing inside the car and at the door in the front of the car in which she was riding talking to an employe of the defendant who was standing on the platform in the vestibule, the train jerked suddenly and threw the plaintiff forward; that in her effort to save herself, she put her hand to the side of the door which closed upon her finger and crushed it.

"The acts of negligence asserted against the defendant relate to the manner of operation of the train, causing it to jerk and the condition of the door catch, permitting the door to close under the force of the jerk of the train. So far as appears the jerk was not an unusual or extraordinary one, but rather one incidental and ordinary in the usual course and customary method of operation—the proof intimating that it was caused by the braking of the train while making the descent of a grade.

"There are cases which predicate negligence upon the sudden movement of cars and trains, but these cases generally refer to incidents where the trains have stopped to receive or discharge passengers, and that the injury to the passenger by the sudden movement was the reasonable, natural and probable result of the particular situation which ought to have been foreseen in the exercise of the degree of care exacted from common carriers. (Ayers vs. Rochester Ry. Co., 156 N. Y. 104.)

"It has also been held that evidence merely descriptive of the force of the starting and stopping movement, or that the train jerked is not sufficient to warrant of itself any inference of negligence or that it differed in any way from the ordinary operation. * * *

"The jerking of the train, however was not the sole cause of the injury which was directly caused by the closing of the door upon the finger, which it is claimed was loosened from the door catch by the jar of the train. The only evidence in behalf of the plaintiff as the court recalls it, as to the condition of the door catch which plaintiff claims was defective, was the testimony of Max Hoffman, who testified that the spring was very weak. If this evidence had been objected to, it would have been excluded as a conclusion.

"The evidence and its legal effect is against the finding that the defendant committed an act of negligence in the manner of the operation of the train and establishes nothing beyond an ordinary jerking incidental to its usual operation when running between stations.

"The case, if confined to competent testimony, contains no direct evidence of any defect in the door catch other than the inference that might be drawn that it was defective because it failed to hold the door when subjected to a sudden jerk.

"I believe under all the facts and circumstances that the ends of justice require a new trial in this case.

"Order may be entered setting aside the verdict and granting defendant a new trial and denying motion of defendant to dismiss the complaint."

Another Triumph For Station WDBZ

Kingston Broadcasting Station Gains More Friends by Reason of Improvements—Sunday Vesper Service Assured.

There was a marked improvement in the clarity of reception and in volume, radio operators reported Thursday evening, after listening in on WDBZ, Ulster County Boy Scout Station, located in the city hall building. Willard Storage batteries were used for the first time Thursday evening, and from the many telephonic communications received at the local studio worked to a greater advantage than the motor, heretofore used.

A greater number of communications complimenting the local station were received from operators throughout the county Thursday evening, than on previous occasions. A. G. Woolsey of Poughkeepsie, a former resident of this city, reported to the local radio headquarters that at a gathering at his home, he entertained with the program broadcasted from station WDBZ. Mr. Woolsey stated that the numbers came in very clearly and very loud.

Benedictine Hospital.

Included on the program Thursday night was a talk by Andrew J. Cook, on the Benedictine Hospital and the opportunities afforded by the Benedictine Hospital Nurses' Training School. Mr. Cook told of the founding of the Benedictine by the late lamented Monsignor Richard Lalor Burtsell and of the accomplishments of the Sisters of the Order of St. Benedict, who are in charge of the hospital. He also spoke of the recent addition to the hospital, which was now modernly equipped, and capable of accommodating sixty patients which more than doubles the facilities of the original building. The new nurses' home recently constructed provides comfort, rest and recreation for the nurses, who contribute so greatly toward the success of the hospital. The importance of the nursing profession today was also included in his talk. New classes are formed in February and September at the Benedictine and applications are now being received for the class, which will begin its classes next month. The course given by competent teachers at the Benedictine training school is accepted everywhere in the United States.

Musical Program.

On the musical program the Roy's orchestra from Central Valley was featured and their numbers were well received.

The duet of the Misses Byrne, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. William H. Rieser was also well received. The string instrument numbers by the Amarello Brothers, group songs by Ralph Van Etten and Conrad Lange of Central Valley and selections on the fiddle by Major James Pierce, accompanied by Harry Maisenhelder on the piano were splendidly rendered. The entire program was pronounced a decided success.

Sunday Vesper Service.

On Sunday afternoon, the second of the series of the vesper services will be broadcasted from Station WDBZ. The Rev. Robert A. Greenwell, pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, will have charge of the services. The program is being prepared.

State Increases Pay for Women

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 16.—Five hundred women employed by the state under civil service, who now receive from $720 to $840 a year will have their salaries raised to $900, Senator Charles J. Hewitt, chairman of the Senate finance committee announced today.

The increase would include in the appropriation bill, even in cases where department heads have not recommended the increase, Senator Hewitt said.

Department heads report that recently they have had great difficulty in filling minor positions in their departments because commercial houses have been paying higher salaries than the state.

CHURCH OF COMFORTER HELD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Reformed Church of the Comforter was held Thursday evening. The reports showed that the church was in good financial condition. At the close of the business meeting a program of magic was given by Fred L. Van Deusen, together with recitations and songs by members of the church. The ladies served refreshments at the close of the program.

Fighters on Trial Today.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 16.—Trial of Tony Fuente, Mexican heavyweight and Fred Fulton, Minnesota boxer, and their managers, Fred Winsor of Los Angeles and Jack Reddy of St. Paul, on charges of violating California's old anti-prize fight law, was scheduled to start today. The case followed a fight here last fall in which the authorities said Fulton was paid to take a "dive" for Fuente's benefit.

East Side Pays Tribute to Foley

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 16.—The thousands of persons streaming into the East Side home of Thomas F. Foley to gaze at the age Tammany leader's body convinced his family today that they would be unable to conduct his funeral tomorrow with the simplicity that Foley had asked.

The East Side virtually took the body away from the family. It was taken at first from the Rockefeller Institute Hospital, where Foley died, to his uptown home. But, a clamor went up from the crooked little streets where Foley was king in his day.

So the body was brought to his old home in Oliver street, five doors from the home of "Al" Smith, to whom "big hearted Tom" taught politics and whose prodigy he was, even after "Al" became governor of New York.

Into these humble Oliver street quarters crowds trod today, feeding themselves into the hone from a line blocks long and guarded by ten policemen.

George W. Olivany, leader of Tammany Hall, has called a meeting of the organization chiefs for this afternoon, when the arrangements for Foley's funeral will be completed.

Many city departments' workers and civic and political organizations have asked permission to attend the funeral in groups.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY AT BRIGGS STREET.

In September of 1923, Jacob Weiner of Ellenville had a gasoline engine and pump stolen from his farm on Briggs Streeet, near Ellenville. No trace was found of the thieves until a few weeks ago when Mr. Weiner was told that his engine was at the home of Harold Tice, near Spring Glen. Search was made and the engine recovered. Tice implicated Chester McDowell, Richard McDowell, Jr., and James Collins in the theft and they were arrested by State Trooper Ross. The latter three are being held under $1,000 bail each for a hearing before Justice Fitzgerald at Ellenville on January 21. Young Tice was held on his own confession and brought to the jail here. Tice was employed on the McDowell farm.

SCHOOL MASTERS' ASS'N HEARS JUDGE JAMES JENKINS

The Schoolmasters' Association of Kingston met in monthly session at the Advance Restaurant on Wall street Thursday evening and listened to an address by Corporation Counsel James Jenkins on "The Twentieth Amendment," which it is proposed to add to the constitution and refers to the regulation of child labor. The speaker and members of the club were not in favor of the proposed amendment but favored the New York state provision placing the age limit at 16 years.

NOW THERE IS LIGHT.

Lower Part of Court House Now Has Modern Lights.

The sheriff's offices and lower corridor of the court house present a very brilliant spectacle nights. The reason is the recent installation of modern electric lights to replace the old lights which have graced the building for a long time past. Modern indirect fixtures have been placed in the offices and in the lower hall which flood the place with light.

Prohibition Is Five Years Old

Its Birthday Observed in the Usual Way by Wets and Drys in National Capitol—Alcohol's Toll in New York State.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Federal prohibition is five years old today.

Congress is preparing a birthday gift to commemorate the event in the shape of an amendment to the Volstead law, making it mandatory on judges to impose jail sentences as well as fines on those who are convicted of violating. The amendment was approved by the house judiciary committee and will soon be up for passage.

The natal day of national prohibition would have passed unnoticed in the capital had it not been for the usual statements concerning its effects, published by its friends and its enemies.

Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League, said prohibition was a great success and that in another five years people would think it strange that they ever patronized bootleggers.

Captain W. H. Stayton, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, saidthe Volstead law was a flat failure and predicted it would not be long before national sentiment compelled a modification of the law.

As between these two opposing forces, bootleggers continued to ply their usual trade in the capital today and reported "business as usual."

Alcohol's Toll in State.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Alcohol took a toll of 561 lives in New York state during the first eleven months of 1924, it was disclosed at the state health department today. These figures do not include the deaths caused by wood alcohol, according to Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health.

Of the 561 victims, 280 were in New York city and 181 up state, mostly in cities though there was a scattering of cases in rural sections.

The heaviest toll was taken last March when there were 73 victims, January ran a close second with 66 deaths.

Good Music Sure For Shriners' Ball

In procuring Zita's orchestra of Albany for the Shriners' ball on Friday, January 23, at the armory, the Shriners' committee has secured one of the greatest and best musical organizations in the country. This orchestra is an aggregation of musicians which frequently broadcasts radio selections in stations in New York city and Schenectady.

Wonderful music with just the proper tempo and variety of selection to insure complete satisfaction for all is the practice of the Zita organization which now has three orchestras on the road, the first and est one of which is to come to Kingston on Friday night.

Peter Emma, pianist; A. R. Zita, violinist, and Charles Cappelano will be the instrumental soloists. Mr. Zita organized this orchestra several months ago, selecting some of Albany's best known musicians. Add this organization to Kingston's own renowned Zucca's entertainers and the result is a sure guaranty of gaood time at the Shriners' all on next Friday night.

Brooklyn Fire Routs 1,250 People

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 16.—Twelve hundred and fifty persons were routed from their homes in Brooklyn early today by two four alarm fires beginning simultaneously in a box factory. Two hundred and fifty persons were taken down ladders by firemen. Most of the refugees were barefooted and scantily clad.

Tenants stood on window ledges screaming for help while firemen raised a score of ladders to the building. Two firemen were knocked down and injured in the rush of tenants down the ladders.

Bus Service to Lexington.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 16.—There was no opposition at the hearing before the public service commission Thursday afternoon on the petition of William R. Garrison for permission to extend his Tannersville-Catskill motor bus route to the hamlet of Lexington. The proposed extension would add 16 miles to the route. The petitioner proposes to operate one round trip a day. He was represented by James Lewis Malcolm of Catskill.

Bids For the Governor Clinton Hotel Feb. 9

Kingston Community Hotel Company Directors Fix Date—Three Local Contractors Will Submit Bids—J. G. White Company Not to Bid—Over $110,000 Paid In.

At least three local contractors have indicated an intention of bidding for the contract for the building of The Governor Clinton Hotel and it has been decided that all bids are to be submitted on or before February 9. The plans and specifications will be in the hands of prospective bidders early next week. Local firms expected to submit bids are W. E. Joyce, Inc., the Michaud-Campbell Co. and Clarence Van Aken. There will also be proposals from out of town firms, but the J. G. White Company, who were associated with George E. Lowe of this city in preparing the plans and specifications will not submit a bid.

Prior to January 1 the treasurer of the Kingston Community Hotel Co. had received in payments on stock sold $95,760 and about $15,000 has come in since. There was $218,640 outstanding, most of it not yet due, on December 31. The Sharpe property has been paid for and the cost of removing the Sharpe residence has been paid. The new foundation has also been paid for. The cost of moving the house was $6,500 and the cost of the foundation was $3,000. Architects have been paid $4,500.

These figures, and others, are given in greater detail in the report of the treasurer of the company, Frank R. Powley, presented at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Kingston Community Hotel Co. on Thursday evening. The full report follows.

Wants Only Three Directors.

There was a small attendance of stockholders and not a large number of proxies presented. The American Hotels Corporation, which was to have the right to shose six directors, asked for only three at this time, George D. Worthington, president of the corporation, Capt. Stephen N. Bobo, vice-president, and J. Leslie Kinkaid. The by-laws were amended so as to provide for nine directors and in addition to the three named by the American Hotels Corporation, Peter A. Black, Arthur J. Burns, Herbert Carl, John H. Gregory, Frank R. Powley and Arthur Wicks were unanimously reelected directors. Max Reben and Eugene Carey were elected tellers.

The tiresome formality of reading and adopting the by-laws occupied most of the hour that the polls had to remain open in order to comply with the law.

It was stated that the total amount of stocks subscribed for during the campaign, without modification of the terms, was $288,000. On this 40 per cent fell due during 1924 and $96,760 was paid, leaving about $20,000 due, collectable, but not collected.

The board of directors met after the stockholders' meeting and elected Herbert Carl president, John H. Gregory, secretary, F. R. Powley, treasurer, A. J. Burns, secretary and Louis S. Coe, assistant secretary.

Now Comes "Goto Church Sunday"

The churches of this city have just completed a census of the city, ascertaining the church preference of every family. This was not done just to be inquisitive but in order that the church and the home might be brought into closer relations, and the pastors do a work they could not do without this information.

In order to encourage the people more fully to cooperate with the churches, next Sunday will be known in Kingston as "Go to Church Sunday." The ministers urge all to attend at least one service in the church which last Sunday they designated as the church of their choice. Every one will receive a welcome. It is expected that much good will come both to the church and the home. Parents are urged to bring the children and make next Sunday one long to be remembered.

Bee Keepers Get Warning

They Must Use Hives Whose Frames Cannot Be Moved For Inspection—Other Matters Discussed at January Meeting.

Warning was given the members of the Ulster County Honey Producers' Association by President C. S. Rowe at the January meeting held in the court house Thursday afternoon that it is against the state law to keep bees in any hives the frames of which cannot be moved for inspection. Mr. Rowe attended the state convention of bee keepers at Syracuse on December 2 and 3 and made his report as delegate at this meeting.

Mr. Rowe announced the coming of Dr. Phillips, professor of apiculture at Cornell, for two days next summer. He will visit the bee keepers of the county and is particularly interested in the purple-loose-strife, a honey producer peculiar to Ulster and Greene counties in this state.

At the convention Mr. Rowe said there was much talk of ways to eradicate the foul brood disease which kills the bees in their infancy. Efforts are being made to get an appropriation of $200,000 from the Federal government for this work. For the first time New York state appropriated $6,500 for speculative extension work.

Mr. Rowe called the attention of the members to the short course in advanced bee keeping to be given by the best talent of Canada and the United States, January 26 to 31, at Cornell University. Charles Frear, secretary, made his report on cooperative buying.

LEGISLATIVE HOUSES HOLD BRIEF SESSIONS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 16.—Senator Seabury C. Mastick, Republican of Westchester, was the state senate today. He was the only one of the 51 members of the upper house present. He called himself to order, as presiding officer, and then adjourned the session. There was no prayer. The session lasted exactly 20 seconds.

The Assembly session lasted two minutes, one minute being taken up with a prayer. There were four members of the house present.

Gets Coconut From Florida.

County Treasurer William H. Van Etten received by mail today a green coconut which when shaken seemed to be filled with coconut milk a or a liquid of some kind. It was sent by Luther Dusinberre, supervisor of the town of Gardiner, a near friend of Mr. Van Etten. The coconut was from the plantation of A. L. F. Deyo at Lauderdale, Florida, where Supervisor Dusinberre is visiting. Mr. Deyo is a former county treasurer of Ulster county.

STATE MAY GET FORMER CONVICT'S $2,700 ESTATE

"The Man Who Came Back" Died Recently in Tennessee, Leaving No Known Relatives.

Nashville, Tenn.—This is a story of the man who came back; the story of friends, a funeral, an ex-convict who died here and has left $2,700 to the state that kept him confined for 15 years.

It came to light when funeral services were being held for William Hartley, seventy-nine years old, mysterious recluse who was found dead in his room at a downtown hotel. Rev. R. M. Jennings, a local pastor, told the story.

Thirty-two years ago William Hartley, then forty-seven, killed a woman in Memphis in a drunken brawl. The crime climaxed a career of sins usual in a misspent life, and the jury, extending mercy, sentenced him to 20 years in the penitentiary at Nashville.

For 15 years the name of William Hartley was blotted from the affairs of the world. Seventeen years ago he stepped through the outer gate of the prison free and alone. If he had relatives nobody knew of them. He came out sixty-two years of age, and into a future of suspicion, detection and friendlessness. He knew the ways of crime but he chose the straight road and followed it with an unaltering footstep down the remaining years of his life. They found him dead here in his hotel room and at his funeral flowers banked as high as the coffin which held his body.

In his eulogy the minister read: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished the course. Henceforth, there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." Scores of his friends, his employers and workmen, were there to do him a last homage, yet none except his one employer ever knew the secret of his life until the minister's words revealed it.

He had left the penitentiary and found employment in a large foundry here. For 17 years he remained there, as night watchman, shipping clerk, messenger, and he never broke the faith. Outside of working hours, he confined himself to his hotel room. None knew. Then the hotel clerk found him dead in his room. There was a bank book showing that he had saved $2,700 since he left the prison. That money, unless some hitherto unknown relative claims it, will go to the state.

They buried him here in a respectable grave, and the epitaph to go over the little stone marker will be, "William Hartley, the man who came back."

Restore Tomb of Watts, Noted Hymn Writer

London.—A special service in John Wesley's old chapel in City road was held to commemorate restoration of the tomb of Isaac Watts, hymn writer, who is buried in Bunhill fields, just across the street.

Bunhill fields is the historic graveyard of English nonconformists. Shelly called it "the Campo Santo of Dissent." Scores of famous nonconformists are buried here as well as Isaac Watts, among others, and John Bunyan, author of "Pilgrim's Progress."

Few, however, who have visited Bunyan's grave have turned aside to seek the grave of the writer of such popular hymns as "O, God, Our Hope in Ages Past" and "Give to Our God Immortal Praise." The reason, no doubt, was the tomb of Watts was almost obliterated by age and lost among the crowded memorials, all worn by weather to a common grayish tint.

The grave of Doctor Watts now has had the altar-tomb, which makes it, renovated. On each side is painted in bold letters that easily catch the eye, "Isaac Watts, D. D."

The schoolboy's idol, Daniel DeFoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe," is buried not far from Doctor Watts, and across the path lies Mrs. Susannah Wesley, mother of John and Charles.

Ladybug Has Cleared Citrus Groves of Pests

Los Angeles.—The little brown insect that for countless years has heard the children of the country singing "ladybug, ladybug, fly away home," now is free to follow this bit of juvenile advice.

The ladybug may turn its thoughts toward home because it has about completed its work in southern California by wiping out the mealy bug, a citrus fruit pest which for years has preyed on the orange orchards of this territory, according to citrus entomologists here.

The pest, a coccid or scale insect, especially of the genus dactylopius, accumulates on the fruit trees, forming a scale of flour-like substances.

Losses of fruit growers in southern California through this pest ran into thousands of dollars. Through discoveries by entomologists, it was found that the ladybug proved the most successful foe of the pest. Ladybugs were introduced into orchards scourged with the bug. They did their work of extermination. Now they may have their holiday.

Ellen Terry Honored by British King

Ellen Terry, in private life Mrs. Ellen Alice Carew, famous old British actress, is shown reading messages of congratulation that reached her in her London home after she had been created Dame Grand Commander of the British Empire, the highest honor that can be bestowed upon an untitled British woman.

RAGPICKER CREW IN OLD MONROE HOUSE

But Memory of Great American Is Preserved.

James Monroe, fifth President of the United States, may have kept the Old world out of the western hemisphere but he failed to keep the sons of the old world away from his own fireside. Tony from Naples, Mike from Palermo, Angelo from Rome, and Joe from Milan sat before the Monroe fireplace the other day. There was no fire, but the yawning aperture made space for the rags and paper that came from their busy fingers. Tony and Mike and Angelo and Joe were sorting on the very spot where Monroe, H[illegible]ton and the distinguished visiting Frenchman, Lafayette, had passed pleasant afternoons almost 100 years ago.

In the old Dutch mansion of Samuel Gouverneur at Prince and Lafayette streets, New York city, where the ex-President lived in genial retirement, entertaining his friends of the days o[illegible]ry in Washington, the rag sorters from Italy and sundry workers from other parts of Europe kept busily at their tasks while they talked of the great man who had lived and died in their work place. They were a little hazy on the details of history, and they were at odds as to the precise place in history of "the bigga boss." But if Monroe had heard the simple recognition of his greatness that came from Tony or Angelo or any one of them he might have relented a bit on his famous doctrine.

"Sure, the bigga boss live here," said Tony. "He run the whole country. He was poor man and he stop down here where the people elect him. The big sign outside tell all about him. He's a one great man. He's a hero before Tom Foley long while ago. He's a some guy. He's a gotter more pull than Foley, too."

"Gowan! Gowan! Shut up! He's a bigga da man, but he come down below Foley!" chipped in Angelo. "Foley gotta more pull than him."

"Well, he's a good guy and he tal everybody 'you not like this country you take a ship home.' He's all right," Tony insisted, but the arrival of the snappy young Italian-American, Joseph Gorill, who has leased the old mansion for his rag and paper-sorting shop, sent the workers back to picking.

The old place is a shell of a building with here and there just a hint of its fallen grandeur. The inside walls are tumbling down and the fireplaces are cracking. The old pillars of the front doorway stand bravely up and the arched Colonial doorway holds the frame of carved woodwork in which set the 12 little panes of crystal. The door is gone and a cheap rough modern door with a padlock has taken its place. The old brownstone top step is worn almost through, but it holds its place. Up in the chamber where Monroe died rags are piled high where the bed once stood. The chamber is dark and mystic and a dreamer can picture the passing of the founder of the Monroe doctrine until some one cries a warning and another bundle of rags comes tumbling in. Such is the present state of the home of Monroe in his last days.

There is a movement on foot to preserve the place as a shrine and in the meantime it is good to know that the humble workers from the Old world who pass busy days there now all know that a great man and a great American once lived there.

Tobacco Foe Supreme

The South Africa tobacco crop is in danger. Wildfire, the deadliest tobacco disease ever known in the world, has broken out amongst the Magaliesberg plantations more severely than on any previous visitation. The whole of the south side of the mountain range is apparently infected, and a tobacco crop is unlikely this year. The destruction of plants in the nursery bed is most rapid. In two or three days practically the whole lot are wiped out. If no remedies are on hand when the infection is first discovered, the planter is hopelessly beaten before the remedies can arrive from town chemists. Bordeaux mixture and other things are being tried, but with little or no success.

Let Steam Escape

After filling a rubber water bottle with hot water always press the sides before putting in the stopper. This expels the steam, and there is little danger of the rubber coming undone, no matter how hot the water may be.

Christmas Seal Sales $2,705.45

There was a worth-while meeting of the executive committee of the Federation of Women's Clubs held at the Kingston City Library on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Wonderly, the first vice-president, presided. Following the usual reports of the secretary and treasurer, the report of the recent tuberculosis seal sale was given as follows:

First Ward, Monday Club	$ 195.12
Second Ward, Sorosis	200.00
Third Ward, Miss Anne Heaney	52.30
Fourth Ward, Mrs. Sara Gallagher	35.00
Fifth Ward, Mrs. A. R. Powley	30.10
Sixth Ward, John Halloran	36.05
Seventh Ward, Mrs. Healey	83.00
Eighth Ward, The Coterie	116.17
Ninth Ward, Twentieth Century Club	60.30
Tenth Ward, Olympian Club	85.00
Eleventh Ward, Atharhacton Club	78.00
Twelfth Ward, Lowell Club	205.45
Thirteenth Ward, Mrs. W. Warner	26.00
Business Section of Wall Street, Dr. Day	90.00
Uptown Post Office	51,67
Ulster County Medical Society	25.00
Industrial Plants, Mrs. Thomas Hayes	147.50
Coin Boxes in stores	7.55
Total in city	$1,524.27
Total, to date, from county	1,181.18
Full total	$2,705.45

It was stated that there were still six towns in the county to be heard from which would doubtless bring up the full total to $3,000, out of which sum a certain percent must be paid the State Charities' Aid Association for the expenses of the general and local sale. The sum remaining will be used for local tuberculosis work.

There were practically no reports given save a very interesting one from the Child Welfare Committee, Mrs. Edmonston, chairman. She explained the general working plan of this committee and told of a few specific cases which made it very evident to all present that it was doing very valuable work in both city and county.

Owing to the fact that two clubs have failed to complete plans for entertaining the Federation at its next open meeting which would normally have come the latter part of January, the Lowell Club gallantly came to the rescue and announced that it would entertain the Federation at this meeting. In order to give them as much time as possible to arrange a program it was voted to grant them an extension of time to the first Saturday in February for the meeting if necessary. The Lowell Club will shortly announce the time and place of the meeting

Mention was made of the second of the Federation lectures to be given at the Kingston High School on the evening of Tuesday, January 27, by Stephen Leacock, "The Canadian Mark Twain." Single tickets for this evening of humor and wisdom may be secured from Federation members or at the door the night of the lecture.

THE WAR DEBTS.

Those who think the war debts ought to be cancelled appear to have forgotten, or to overlook, some very interesting facts. The entry of the United States into the war was welcomed not only because of the added man power but because the Allies were then free to borrow from our Treasury. The great sum of about ten billions loaned to them was raised by the sale of Liberty bonds to American citizens, and if the debts were cancelled the Liberty bonds would still have to be redeemed, the money for redemption coming from taxes levied on our people instead of from payments by the debtor nations, who were naturally expected to pay back what they borrowed. Another thing often forgotten is that the American "associate" in the war on Germany paid England ninety million dollars for ferrying our troops to France, and actually paid rent to France for the trenches which our armies occupied while assisting to fight the Germans off French soil.

Of course the desperate French and pretty nearly desperate English needed every possible penny and we cheerfully accepted their arrangements. Again, when the war was over, Britain and France got large spoil in German colonies annexed under the mandate system, while the United States, though invited to do so, undertook none of these "mandates." All this country has ever asked for is repayment of the money loaned. Of course we can afford to and ought to grant easy terms to our associates in a common war. We should be generous and just in each case, after careful inquiry and consideration, but obviously, in justice to our own taxpayers, cancellation is out of the question. Nor would it be for the best moral interests of the debtor nations, or aid in the effort to prevent wars—an effort assisted by the heavy penalty of war debt.

A NEGRO VILLAGE.

Little has been seen in print of late about the negroes who left the South for the North and West during the World War. In the earlier stages of the migration serious riots took place in some of the mid-western cities, but these were less bloody and deadly than the outbreaks against imported negro strike breakers ten and twenty years previously, when, at some points, many negroes were killed; their houses were burned and the survivors were driven out of town. The war and post-war migrations seem to have been accepted more calmly and with less opposition, this being due possibly to a reluctant recognition among the working classes that the importations were too large to be dealt with and that the competition of the black man, however unwelcome, was an accomplished fact.

Nevertheless there are indications that the negroes settled in the middle west have been reminded of the wisdom of the old adage, birds of a feather flock together, and have found it good policy to live so far as possible, apart from the whites. We read, for example, of the village of Robbins 14 miles from Chicago with a population of 2,000, "99 per cent colored." Robbins has sent forth a very good account of itself, claiming "no gambling, no vice, no crime, no arrests, no jail" within its borders and asserting that its early troubles were entirely due to disorders in its little "white belt"—which obviously is, or was, out of place and should become extinct. Robbins claims a church on every corner of its main street and membership in some fraternal order for "every man, woman and child," announcing various modern improvements, including an energetic women's club, and two schools. Its peace and extraordinary virtue are doubtless exaggerated, but the segregation plan has its merits and might be adopted with profit elsewhere.

After all we learned in childhood about the enlightened determination of the busy bee to "improve each shining hour" it is somewhat of a shock to hear that in the opinion of a British scientist the bee is really stupid and is industrious only "because it can't help it."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

CHEWING.

Some years ago there was an organization whose object was to improve their own health, and the health of the world in general.

They stated, and the statement is only too true, that man was made up only from what he ate, nothing more, nothing less.

And what he did with what he ate determined his health in general.

One of the points they emphasized was the chewing of the food.

With substances of a certain consistency, there was to be so many chews to each "bite" of food.

Something like twenty-five chews was considered correct for a bite of the average food.

Now they argued, and with reason, that the teeth were meant to prepare the food for the stomach by dividing the food up into very small particles. This made it easier for the stomach to handle, because the stomach didn't have any teeth, and naturally expected the teeth to do this work of preparation.

But there are two or three other points about the chewing, that are often overlooked.

You were taught that the mouth juice, saliva, turned starch into sugar. This is a chemical process, and if you swallow your food without chewing it, and thus mixing the saliva with it, then your process of digestion has missed the first part of its job, and will have to do this extra work further down.

Still another thing that while it is not chemical, is nevertheless almost as important, is that if you fail to chew your good, then likewise the mouth juice doesn't get the proper chance to soften that food before it reaches the stomach.

The stomach will have a little less work to do if these three things, the cutting of the food up by the teeth into small particles, the turning of the starch into sugar, and the softening of the food are all done for it, instead of it having to do all this work that should be done by the mouth.

And still another point that is often forgotten.

Some foods contain gasses within them—hot buttered toast, for instance—that if chewed slowly, these gases escape from the mouth.

If swallowed without proper chewing, these gases expand in the stomach and give distress.

Yes, chewing the food is a pretty good habit.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

ROSAMOND.

Rosamond was the daughter of Walter de Clifford, lord Hereford, and was the favorite mistress of Henry II, of England.

To conceal this amour from his jealous queen, Eleanor, Henry is said to have removed Rosamond to a labyrinth in Woodstock Park where, however, his wife discovered her and obliged her to take poison. Some authors declare that the fair Rosamond died at Godstow nunnery, near Oxford. She had two sons by Henry, William, surnamed Longsword, and Jeffry, archbishop of York.

THE DEATH OF GIBBON.

The 16th of January, 1794 is memorable as the date of the death of one of the greatest historians of all time Edward Gibbon. His monumental work on "The Decline and Fall of The Roman Empire" has been described as one of these works "which everybody owns and nobody reads," but this is far from true and if the truth were known, almost all of the best read historical works—yes—even including some famous "out lines" gained their inspiration and information from the great and really wonderful work of Gibbon.

FIRST ENGLISH DIVORCE COURT.

Today is the anniversary of the institution of the divorce court in England, January 16, 1858. The jurisdiction of the ecclesiastical authorities was abolished by this act.

The divorce and matrimonial court consisted of three judges.

At its first sitting five marriages were dissolved, and in the first year of its existence the Court granted 38 divorces out of a total of 288 petitions. Up to the time of the establishment of the court there had been in England, since the Reformation 317 divorces granted by acts of parliament. Down to the passing of the Divorce Act in 1858, the theory of the English law in regard to divorce was the same as that of the Roman Catholic Church, although in practice this rule was not strictly adhered to, as wealthy and influential persons were able to secure through Parliament, freedom from galling ties.

Sell Bricks for Legion Building

New Form of Tag Day to be Conducted by American Legion Auxiliary to Aid New Legion Building Here.

On Saturday the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary will be about the streets selling bricks, the proceeds of which will go toward building the American Legion home on West O'Reilly street. The bricks to be sold will not be the regular Hudson river brick but will be miniatures which may be pinned on the coat of the purchaser. Every wearer of a brick will be marked as a contributor to the building fund of Legion. It has been the custom on former "tag days" to ask for any donation which the purchasers desired to make but Brick Day will be different. The sum of twenty-five cents has been given as the price of a brick and no one will be expected or allowed to pay more. However, there is nothing to prevent a public spirited citizen from purchasing more than one brick from the young ladies.

Some time ago the members of Kingston Post, No. 150, American Legion, decided to build a Legion home in the city as a permanent club house and home for the Legion members and also as a memorial to the veterans of the war. A lot was purchased on West O'Reilly street, adjoining the high school property, and since that time the home has been the big object of the members of the Legion and the Auxiliary. Some time ago a building fund was created and proceeds from the annual dances were deposited in the fund, moneys were derived from various sources and placed in the building fund until a sum sufficient for the purchase of the lot was finally secured and the lot purchased. There is a small balance to commence construction with and it is the hope of the Legion members and their able assistants, the members of the Auxiliary, that a substantial sum will be realized from the Brick Day sale.

Plans are under way for the building which will be of brick, two stories in height, equipped with club rooms for the Legion and the Auxiliary. It is the hope of the building committee to have these plans completed within a short time and then begin the actual construction of the home. The purchase of a brick on Saturday will hasten the construction.

Tuberculosis Enemy of Young Womanhood

It would be disconcerting indeed to accept as medico-social gospel the statements of Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk before the national educational conference in New York, concerning the physical deterioration of the present-day girl. His main thesis is that she is giving way under the strain involved in self-confidently defying tradition and convention. He thinks the price she pays for what she considers her freedom is a shortening of her years, an inability to reap all that should be harvested from life, physically and spiritually, and a general depression of health.

If it be established as a universal fact, embracing the whole country, that the death rate among women is greater than among men only between the ages of seventeen and thirty-two, the reasons are to be sought elsewhere than in the woman's enjoyment of "this freedom." Tuberculosis, childbirth and influenza are assigned as the principal causes of mortality in these 15 years. But one of the boasts of medical science is the relative conquest of perils attending childbirth and women would hardly seem more susceptible to influenza than men.

Tuberculosis remains as young womanhood's most deadly enemy. It is "defiant and resistant" at the ages mentioned, though yielding in all other groups of the population. This is where faulty diet and late hours tell most heavily on young women engaged in commercial and industrial employments. The practical remedy seems to lie in a return to the normal home life of the mothers, and every influence of church and school, of teacher and doctor, should be directed to such a readjustment of social life as would assure her proper proportion of healthful repose to the young woman who spends her working hours in office or factory.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Pest Made Useful

At the Pacific Northwest forest experiment station at Portland, Ore., a method has been found to utilize the energies of a pest. One of the expensive processes in paper making is the barking of logs, for no bark should get into the wood pulp. The director of the station, Thornton P. Munger, has recently been informed by Dr. F. C. Craighead of the bureau of entomology that beetles can sometimes be persuaded to perform this work.

"One southern lumber company gets the beetles to work, Mr. Munger was told, by girdling close to the ground the pine to be cut for pulpwood," the service bulletin says. "If this is done in the late summer, a multitude of bark borers and other beetles are attracted to the trees and in a few weeks have the bark so completely loosened that it can easily be slipped off when the trees are felled. At this point, however, the truce between beetle and forester is at an end, for logging during the winter following destroys the insects harbored in the bark, and this one abundant feast is their last."

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

TOMMY'S NEW SHOES

He Was Ashamed of Them.

Tommy was not very old. Nor was he so very, very young. That is to say, he was not a baby. Not by any manner of means. He went out to play with others and with an older brother and sister, too.

That was one of the reasons Tommy did not feel so very old. He was the youngest in the family. His sister and his brother were older than he was, and of course so was his daddy and so was his mother.

Christmas time was coming soon and all the boys and girls were talking about it.

"What are you going to ask Santa for?" they would ask Tommy. Tommy didn't know.

His mother had been sick during the fall and his father had been out of work for several weeks and Tommy had heard it hinted that Santa Claus had helped with the medicine.

"Perhaps," thought Tommy to himself, "Santa has spent all he can afford on our family, for he has to divide up Christmas between all the families."

And when he asked his older brother and his older sister if this were true, they said that he was right. They asked Santa to give them a little of their Christmas in medicines.

Not because they wanted medicines, but because medicines had to be bought and money hadn't been coming in—hardly at all.

For one thing Tommy wanted a bag of candy. He also wanted one of Santa's oranges. They were so much better than the ones at the store. Better than any other oranges could possibly be.

Tommy also thought he would like a little tin boat—just a tiny one to float in the bathtub.

But more than anything else Tommy wanted a pair of new shoes.

Perhaps that may seem a strange present for Tommy to have wanted.

He had his good shoes and his old shoes. Only his good shoes were not so very good any longer and his old shoes were so old that he was ashamed of them.

Maybe it seems to some as though a little boy wouldn't be apt to be ashamed of an old pair of shoes. Maybe you think a boy wouldn't think of his appearance and whether he wore old clothes or nice ones.

Maybe boys don't like to dress and fuss and all that sort of thing, but Tommy didn't like the feeling that he hadn't any better shoes to wear.

His Sunday shoes were beginning to show a little wear and his everyday ones were so dreadful.

He felt everyone looked at them. He felt he looked poor and he felt as though in some way people pitied him, and though he was only a little boy he hated that.

And he felt they thought somehow it was his mother's fault for getting sick and his father's for being out of work for a while.

He knew it was not. His mother didn't enjoy being sick or taking horrid medicine. And his father didn't enjoy not having work.

He looked very miserable sitting around the house or going out and then coming back again and saying to Tommy's mother:

"No luck this time. It's a hard time of the year."

Yes, there were a number of reasons why Tommy wanted shoes.

Then he could wear his Sunday ones for every day and his new ones for Sunday. And if, on the muddy spring days, he should wear the very old pair it wouldn't matter then, for he could say, "I just thought I'd wear this old pair so I could have some fun." They would know he had a better pair and it would be all right.

There Were Candy Bags and Oranges.

It was Christmas morning and Tommy awoke with a start. He heard his father shouting out Christmas greetings to everyone and all the family were wide awake and joyful.

"Mother feels better than she has for weeks," Tommy heard his father telling his older brother and sister, "and last night Mr. Brown told me he had a job for me!"

Oh, how happy Tommy felt, but even greater than all the family rejoicing, it seemed to him at that moment, was the fact that Santa Claus had called the night before, even though he had had to do so much already. And there were candy bags and oranges and mittens and a beautiful, shiny, splendid pair of new shoes with a piece of paper sticking out of one, upon which was written,

"Tommy's new shoes, from Santa."

HOT PUDDINGS

At this season of the year steamed and baked puddings are much enjoyed.

A plain pudding with a good well-seasoned sauce will often be preferred to a rich pudding.

Ginger Pudding.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter, add one-half cupful of sugar gradually and one egg well beaten; mix and sift two and one-fourth cupfuls of flour with three and one-half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of ginger. Add the dry ingredients alternately with one cupful of milk to the first mixture. Turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam two hours. Serve with:

Vanilla Sauce.—Mix one-half cupful of sugar with one tablespoonful of cornstarch, add one cupful of boiling water, boil five minutes, add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of vanilla, a few gratings of nutmeg and a little salt.

Cottage Pudding.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter with three-fourths of a cupful of sugar. Beat two eggs, add one-half cupful of milk, mix with the butter and sugar, add one and one-fourth cupfuls of flour sifted with two tablespoonfuls of baking powder. Bake in a small sheet. Cut into squares and serve with:

Pudding Sauce.—Mix a tablespoonful of flour with one-half cupful of sugar, add one-half cupful of boiling water and cook until smooth. Add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of butter and a grating of nutmeg. Serve hot.

Steamed Cranberry Pudding.—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar gradually, three eggs well beaten, one-half cupful of milk, three and one-half cupfuls of flour, one and one-fourth tablespoonfuls of baking powder and one and one-half cupfuls of cranberries. Cream the butter, add the sugar, eggs well beaten. Mix and sift the flour and the baking powder and add alternately to the first mixture; stir in the berries, turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam three hours. Serve with thin cream sweetened and flavored with nutmeg.

Joseph Alame of New York has been spending a few days at his home here.

Andrew Auchmoody and family from near Jenkintown spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Auchmoody and family on Sunday.

The farmers in this section filled their ice houses last week with fine ten inch ice from Horace Elliott's pond.

ACCORD.

Accord, Jan. 15.—The consistory of the Reformed Church are preparing for an oyster supper to be held in the basement of the church on Friday, January 23. The supper will be ready at 6 p. m. and is to be prepared and served by the men.

The Reformed Sunday school scholars are making plans for the various booths, and articles to be sold and used for the coming Valentine party on the night of February 14.

MORE CABINET CHANGES FORECAST.

Below: JOHN W. WEEKS & ALONSON B. HOUGHTON

The impression is growing in Washington that President Coolidge will entirely re-make the Cabinet he inherited from President Harding. Secretary of War John W. Weeks, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Secretary of the Interior J. J. Davis are reported ready to retire. Alonson B. Houghton, American Ambassador to Germany, is said to be slated for the post of Ambassador to London, succeeding Frank B. Kellogg, appointed Secretary of State.

INCOME TAX IN A NUTSHELL.

Who? Single persons who had net income of 1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2 500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.

When? The filing period is from January 1 to March 15, 1925.

Where? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.

How? In structions on Form 1040A and Form 1040; also the law and regulations.

What? Two per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 of net income in excess of the personal exemptions and credits. Four per cent normal tax on the next $4,000. Six per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $10,000.

YOUR INCOME TAX.

No. 5

In making out his income tax for the year 1924, the business man, professional man, and farmer is required to use Form 1040, regardless of whether his net income was or was not in excess of $5,000. The smaller form 1010A is used for reporting income of $5,000 or less derived chiefly from salaries or wages.

Forms have been sent to persons who last year filed returns of income. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve the taxpayer from his obligation to file a return and pay the tax within the time prescribed, on or before March 15, 1925. Copies of the forms may be obtained from offices of collectors of internal revenue and branch offices. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return, or in four equal installments, due on or before March 15, June 15, September 15 and December 15.

Mill Knew Greek at Three

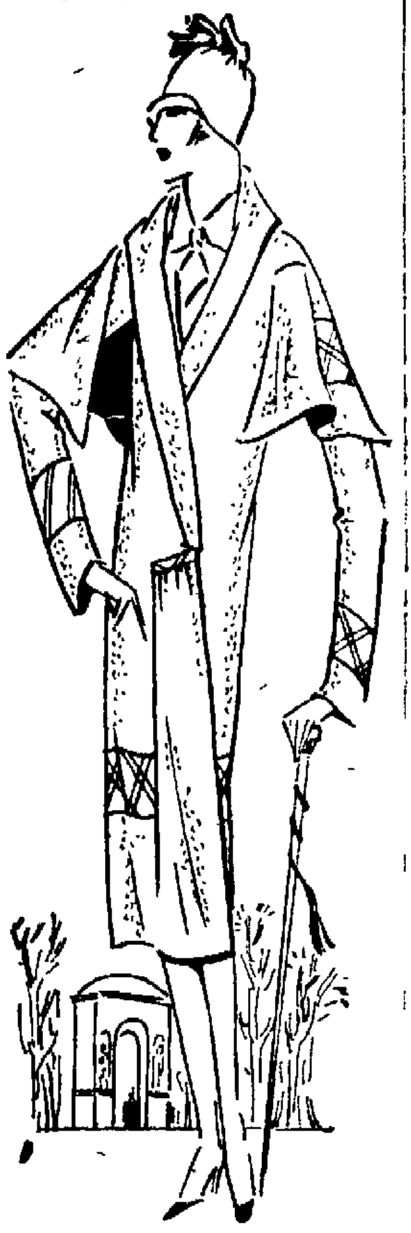
John Stuart Mill was studying Greek at three and had practically mastered the language at seven.

THE TRAVEL COAT MAY HAVE A CAPE

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

While the straight, relatively short, coat dominates the southern sportswear choice, coats for other purposes are skirt length. This by no means is necessarily long. One is already conscious of the shortening process to which old skirts are subjected—and new ones conform.

The coat sketched is—need one say—French. It is developed in a string-colored wool, plaided on the reverse and trimmed with the plaid. The jauntiness of the shoulder cape commends it to women who like a certain mannish suggestion to their top-coats, for though the two piece suit is subservient to the ensemble, the fact that a costume is of the ensemble type does not always insure it being ultra feminine. Especially is the masculine touch introduced in top-coats, so often double-breasted, so frequently with notched collars.

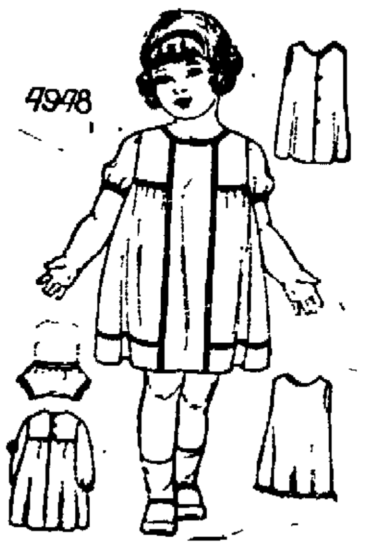


There is a definite preference for fabrics of the kasha type in natural coloring. Sports coats, so often white, have a new and beguiling way of getting themselves trimmed with blonde fur, an effective idea, especially when the lining reflects the tone of the fur.

One must not reckon without the silk coat this season, and by the term one also includes satin. Ribbed silks have become greatly liked, and so, for sports wear, have velveteens, which shows that smart as the new woolens undoubtedly are, they have rivals in the field.

(Copyright, 1925, Fairchild.)

OUR DAILY PATTERN.



A Simple Outfit For a "Smart Girl."

4948. This set of garments comprises a neat dress, a simple petticoat in "slip" style, and comfortable one piece drawers. The dress may be made of voile, batiste or crepe. It is also good for gingham and wool rep. The petticoat and drawers may be of nainsook or cambric.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 6 months, 1 year, 2, 3 and 4 years. For a 2 year size it will require 1⅝ yards for the dress, ⅞ yard for the petticoat and ¾ yard for the drawers, of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department. The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date fall and winter 1924-1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.

Slipper Decorations.

Outside of some monstrosities, like the two or three feet long pointed shoes of the XIV century or the six-inch high heels of the XVIII century, a great many people, engaged in the "gentle craft" of shoe making, were kept busy at various times with buckles and bows. These were the two principal decorations chasing and replacing each other.

The Pilgrim days cannot be imagined without the buckled shoes. Many of these buckles were the work of the jeweler's art, when worn at the court of Paris and London.

Around 1700 curious combinations were developed. Buckles were worn with bows or roses, or with the last two together, without any buckle at all. The acme of foppishness was achieved, however, at the court of France where gentlemen wore a large rose with a tremendous tuft bow above it. The outside corners of this stiff bow were again trimmed with smaller bows like bows [illegible]. Women, for once, were not [illegible] of this style, because their long wide skirts were in the way.

The French Revolution in its effort to wipe out everything reminding of the Bourbons, brought in laced shoes which, however, were far from being new [illegible] in England [illegible] 1679 [illegible] soon followed the French [illegible]. The English buckle [illegible] the Prince of Wales to [illegible] up the [illegible] but even he could not [illegible] of fashion.

Few [illegible] the word "pump" [illegible] of American origin and [illegible] first applied at the end of the XVIII century to the shoe worn by the dandies of Boston.

IDEAL PARK.

Ideal Park, Jan. 15 — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelsey have returned to Samsonville, and will remain there for the winter.

Mr. Clyde and Hilton Mathews of Kingston, spent Tuesday evening at their bungalow, "Two Brooks."

Harvey Clancey of Phoenicia, has had good luck with his traps in this section.

It is hoped the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ford of Willow, is improving after the serious illness he just had.

Harry Blythe and Fenton Lane of Willow, are working on John Harrison's new house.

L. E. DeVall is employed by George Kinkade of Phoenicia.

A number of house parties have been enjoyed by the young people of Mt. Tremper which help to while away the long winter evenings.

Half the world is half asleep

Can success in life be undermined by constipation? Indeed it can. The poisons of this disease tire you out, wear you down, make you listless and make you lose interest in things in general. Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

He didn't have the energy to fight

LOST . . . another big order . . . the fourth defeat that day. All because he didn't have the energy to fight when his prospect said "No." Something had blunted his senses and stolen his strength.

That "something" was constipation. What a shame so many people suffer from constipation when there is an easy, pleasant, sure way to permanent relief—the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—two tablespoonfuls daily, or in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it travels through the system, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it sweeps the intestine clean and drives out the vicious poisons of constipation. ALL-BRAN also absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, stimulating it to healthy, normal action. ALL-BRAN works as nature works.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals, or cooked with cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on the package. Delicious with fruits too. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price.

Caution! Be sure to get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Leading restaurants serve it. Buy a package today.

Home-Seekers' Big Gain in Year

Local Savings and Loan Association Shows Increase of $173,000 in Assets—Six Per Cent Dividend Declared.

The board of directors of the Homeseekers' Cooperative Savings and Loan Association for the city of Kingston have declared the usual dividend of six per cent. The annual report shows the association to have made wonderful gains during the year, the assets having increased from $938,000 to $1,146,000 and the number of shares outstanding from 16,890 to 18,700. During the year the association has loaned over $200,000, most of it for the purchase or erection of homes.

The Homeseekers is 35 years old, and like all associations of this kind, is under the supervision of the state banking department and subjected to a rigid examination every year. It has a reserve fund of over $19,000 to meet possible losses, and all of its loans are on property within a radius of 50 miles of its office.

These associations are operated primarily to furnish loans to their members for the purchase or erection of homes, but by far the greater part of their members are not borrowers, but belong to the association for the purpose of accumulating their savings. The enforced regularity of deposits and large interest returns, or dividends, make these institutions peculiarly advantageous for this purpose.

Membership is open to anyone who wishes to save, and the plan is just as well adapted to their requirements whether they wish to accumulate $1 a month or $100. The prospective member is required to subscribe for a definite number of shares and pay an entrance fee of 25 cents on each one. Thereafter he must deposit $1 on each share every month. Dividends are added to his account annually, and in turn earn more dividends. The dividend rate of the Homeseekers has been six per cent for the last ten years. When the account amounts to $200 per share, the shares have "matured" and the shareholder receives his money. Shares usually mature in about 140 months.

There is no limit to the number of shares a person may hold, and they may be taken on joint account or in trust for children by parents or others. Shares are issued in series, a new one being opened every February and August, but persons may join any time by paying back to the opening of the series.

If a shareholder is unable to continue his deposits or requires his money, he may withdraw his account, the association following the practice of paying withdrawals on demand without requiring notice. In such cases the association retains one-fifth of the accrued dividends.

Subscriptions for shares in the 48th series, which opens next month, are being received at the association's office, 3 East Strand, and everyone wishing to take shares is invited to call there.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Jan. 15.—The Auxiliary Club held one of its very delightful meetings Friday afternoon, January 9, at the home of Mrs. J. W. Feeter. Over 60 were present and the Mrs. Feeter, Elting, White and Mellor proved themselves delightful hostesses. The club starts off with splendid prospects for a successful and harmonious year. All chairmen, heads of committees, also board of heads of committees, treasurer and secretaries, also board of managers, sunshine and home heads, gave encouraging reports and many discussions for the future were in evidence. Mrs. Braunstein, in well chosen words, presented the president, Suzanne E. Decker, with an electric boudoir lamp, showing the esteem in which she is held among the members. Her acceptance was in her usual happy manner and greeted with applause. The hostess served most delicious and tempting viands in abundance, which were appreciated and enjoyed. All left for their homes with expressions of pleasure for the January meeting, and awaiting more of the same nature and same good time.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Lent entertained relatives from Dutchess county this week.

McBRIDE'S DRUG STORES.

THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Make your skin a business asset—

Get rid of those blotches and blackheads! That skin trouble may be more than a source of suffering and embarrassment—it may be holding you out of a better job for which a good appearance is required. Why 'take a chance'? when Resinol Ointment heals skin eruptions so easily

Resinol Soap and Resinol Shaving Stick contain the same soothing properties and are used by discriminating men who like their generous, cleansing lather and wholesome Resinol fragrance. At all druggists.

TEXAS TO HONOR GREAT LEADER

Second Largest Equestrian Statue in World Will Honor Sam Houston.

Washington, D. C.—"Like the city that spreads over the District of Columbia, and the capital of Nebraska, Houston, Texas, where the second largest equestrian statue in the world soon is to be set up, was named for one of the outstanding leaders and heroes of America," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society. "But because Sam Houston, the subject of the huge statue, carried on his work on the frontiers rather than in the relatively crowded East, his fame has suffered.

"Sam Houston might be considered a sort of average struck between Daniel Boone, Andrew Jackson, and George Washington—which makes him more typical of American leaders of the past century than most of his fellows," continues the bulletin. "Like Boone he loved the frontier, was an excellent woodsman, and was recognized as a leader by the Indians as well as by his fellow Americans. Like Jackson he was a rough and ready, but an admirable soldier. And like Washington he combined military skill with a natural ability to command attention in the council chamber. Like Washington, too, he played a prominent part in shaping the destiny of his country. His was the major role in freeing one-twelfth of the present territory of the United States from Mexico and annexing it to the Union as the state of Texas.

"Few men have held so many positions of authority in different jurisdictions as Sam Houston. He was a member of congress from and governor of Tennessee, commander-in-chief of the Army of Colonial Texas, president of the Republic of Texas, senator from the state of Texas, and governor of Texas.

"The city which is the namesake of General Sam Houston is more happily and less arbitrarily designated than most communities that bear the names of famous men. It was almost on the site of the city that General Houston, commanding the revolutionary army of Texas, defeated Santa Ana, president and commander-in-chief of Mexico, in the battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836, and made possible the state of which Houston is now one of the leading cities.

From Battlefield to Metropolis.

"If the old general could see through the bronze eyes of the effigy which will be set up near the scene of his pregnant victory, he would behold a vastly different region from that over which his soldiers fought with their muzzle-loading muskets. The long grass in which 'the Mexican Napoleon' was found hiding the day after his defeat has been replaced by the close clipped lawns of tens of thousands of dwellings of a modern American city. The few old trails have turned into a checkerboard of paved business streets, while railroads and electric lines and shell highways radiate out into a region of farms, orchards and ranches. The place bristles with skyscrapers—more, Houstonians assert, than in any other city of like size.

"One of the most noteworthy transformations is that which has made once inland Houston a seaport. Buffalo bayou, on whose banks Texas independence was won, is no more. Modern fairy wands—steam shovels and dredges and a few million dollars—have turned the sluggish old stream into the Houston Ship canal which has made the city a sort of American Manchester. Ocean steamers traverse the canal to a basin on the city's fringe and help to move the 3,000,000 bales of cotton that are marketed through Houston annually.

"The population of Houston is an unknown quantity. In 1920 the city had 138,276 inhabitants. The census bureau refuses to guess at the present number. It puts Houston in a sort of hall of fame with about a half dozen other cities which, it is officially explained, are growing so rapidly that an estimate would be valueless. Unless Houston requests a special enumeration as some other cities have done it will have to do its own guessing until Uncle Sam's next official counting of noses in 1930.

"Houstonians have one grudge against their fellow countrymen of the North and East. If your name is Saunders and persons you meet carelessly call you 'Sanders' or 'Zander,' you will understand their indignation and annoyance at the constant mispronunciation of their city's name. The first syllable is not pronounced as if it were 'house' or 'whose' but like the verb 'to hew' or the masculine Christian name 'Hugh.'"

Perfumed Subway

Paris.—A perfumed subway will be the latest boast of Paris, according to a decision of the directors. Following hundreds of protests of bad air and disagreeable odors the underground line has decided to install hygenic apparatus in stations and cars, to give off a delicious perfume.

Moccasins Scarce

Seattle, Wash.—Indian moccasins, once a drug on the curio market, are now hard to get. Northwest Indians can earn enough money during summer months aiding in the harvest and fishing or clamming to last them the rest of the year. Business conditions thus change the course of production.

HIGH FALLS

High Falls, Jan. 15.—On Thursday, January 8, the Ladies' Aid of the Reformed Church met at the home of Mrs. M. S. Davis. Seventeen members were present and enjoyed a very social time. After the business period of the meeting a happy surprise was tendered Mrs. Martha Sheeley, whose birthday happened to be on that day. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Davis, consisting of several kinds of cake, sandwiches, grape juice and apples. A beautiful birthday cake decorated with candles was made and presented by Mrs. George Grant. The whole event was enjoyed by all present. At five-thirty the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. J. L. Snyder of Stone Ridge, was a caller in this place one day last week.

Mrs. DeWitt Beach was a recent visitor at the home of her sister, Miss Fannie Elmendorf, of Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Beach also visited Tarrytown and Briarcliff.

Mrs. Esther Sahler has been removed to her home from the Kingston City Hospital and is recovering very slowly from her accident.

Mrs. Fred Brown, who had charge of the annual Christmas seal sale, reports the amount $26.56.

The ice houses in this place are being filled with very nice ice.

Mrs. Joseph Ham, who has been visiting her son, John Ham and family for some time, will return to her home soon at Bradford, Conn. Her many friends regret her going.

A very pleasant surprise was tendered Preston Church on Tuesday night at his home when a large number of his friends walked in for a social time. Music and dancing was indulged in and at a late hour a bountiful luncheon was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Krom and sons, James and Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. David Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Festus Yeaple, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Steen, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Church, Kenneth Church, Miss Esther Wager, the Misses Gwenn and Carlton Church. Those from out of town were the Misses Jones of Cottekill, Miss Esther Lyons, Elmer Pratt, Mr. Van Aken, Mrs. Smith of Accord, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Osterhoudt, Mr. Lockwood, Arthur Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge. The guests departed at a late hour voting Mr. and Mrs. Church fine entertainers.

High Falls, Jan. 15.—Divine service will be held in the High Falls Reformed Church next Sunday morning at 10:30. The Rev. Thomas S. Braithwaite will have as the subject of his sermon, "Come to Church; God" Invitation and Ours." Service at Alligerville at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Sunday school at High Falls at 9:30. Thomas Snyder, superintendent. Christian Endeavor meeting at 7:30; topic, "Friendliness as Expressed Through Medical Missions."

SHOKAN.

Shokan, Jan. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Osterhoudt were business callers in Kingston Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Wells and Lena Constable called on Mr. and Mrs. Abe Avery Friday evening.

Mrs. Sarah Bell had the misfortune to fall and hurt herself quite badly. She is under the care of Dr. Dumond.

All welcome Kenneth Barley of Samsonville back in "The Lake View Garage" as mechanic.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt Winchell of Olive Bridge passed through this place Friday last.

All are glad to hear Mrs. James Giles is improving at this writing.

Mrs. Hazzle Wager called on Mrs. Abe Avery Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Windrum and Mrs. Rainey were callers in Kingston Thursday last.

Mrs. Allen called on Mrs. Sarah Bell Tuesday.

Ethel Budrey of Olive Bridge is visiting Mrs. Kenneth Budrey.

Mr. Winchell has completed filling his ice house.

Raymond Osterhoudt, Mr. and Mrs. James Constable and Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Wells called on Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Krom of Tabasco Sunday afternoon.

ST. REMY.

St. Remy, Jan. 15.—The new heater has been installed in the church. Services on Sunday as follows: Sunday school 1:30 and church service 2:30 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Thompson of Chelsea were Sunday guests of Harry Krom and family.

Many are paying their taxes at the residence of the collector, Jacob Frost.

Mrs. N. F. Kohler of Kingston visited her aunt, Mrs. Kathryn Sutton, on Wednesday.

The Social Club met with Mrs. Frank Pokorney on Wednesday.

Mrs. Irving Van Deck of Kingston spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. John G. Frey.

The farmers are getting their fire wood out while the ice lasts.

"INDIVIDUALITY OF DRESS"

Tempting Spanish Shawls Are Most Difficult to Wear

Those fancy shawls—they're going to continue dancing in the public eye, and will probably continue to be worn incorrectly. There's the girl who drapes her scarf over one arm and looks like an artist's model—striking, perhaps, but in bad taste. There's the girl who takes her scarf too seriously and feels that with it she must have Spanish slippers and a Spanish comb, and finally succeeds in looking like a fancy dress party. There's the large, short woman who shouldn't wear a scarf at all, for about her shoulders it looks like an immigrant's shawl, and not a dashing touch to a costume. If you're tall and graceful and are willing to subjugate the rest of your costume to it—then buy your fancy shawl.

State Tax on Partnerships

Completion of the mailing of 45,410 forms to partnerships for the filing of 1924 returns has brought into the State Income Tax Bureau many snarled situations for solution.

"Take, for instance," commented Bureau Director Thomas M. Lynch, "the death of a partner during the year. This means that a return for the fractional period must be filed. If fresh energy is secured through a substituted partner, the new partnership must also submit a return either for the balance of the year if it keeps books on calendar year method, or for a full new twelve months if it files on a fiscal year basis.

"Again," he continued, "the carrying on of the business by a surviving member of a partnership makes necessary the partial year return. Of course, the members in all cases should report in their individual returns not only their salaries but their distributive shares of the profits."

Mr. Lynch explained that by distributive share the law means the amount each partner is entitled to and that if he leaves it in the business instead of withdrawing it, such amount must still be figured as income which he received.

"Most of our partnership auditing problems," concluded the director, "are due to failure of figures of an opening inventory to match up with those used in concern's last closing inventory. Some partnerships also try to apply losses of a previous year against a current year's income. This is not allowed under the New York law. All partnerships should remember that the return is required on form 204 whether the business shows a profit or a loss. Then, too, the amounts shown as paid to the members, made up of both salaries and distributive shares, should be the same as those reported in the individual returns of the partners.

Parsi Put Their Dead on Towers of Silence

It was a terrifying sight and I was the first European to see it. I had to camouflage myself and to dress and act like a native of India in order to visit the sacred burial places of the Parsi, says a writer in "Deutsche Medizinische Wochenschrift."

The burial places, or rather the storing places, of the dead are the Towers of Silence. Foreigners can never get there, dead or alive. All photographs are prohibited. Only by special influence was it possible for me to get near these strange towers. A Parsi to whom I had been recommended by a friend agreed to guide me.

On Malabar hill there is a grove, surrounded by a high wall. A road takes one up to the house of the guards. We happened to see the burial of a rich Parsi. The body was dressed in white linen and lay on a network of strong linen straps held up by 12 carriers. The entire mourning crowd, dressed in white instead of black, followed the corpse two and two. Each couple was tied together by a white linen ribbon. Eagles and hawks circled about in the air.

I was unable to get to the Towers of Silence proper, but my companion described the burial procedure. The corpse is laid on the platform of one of the towers by men who are employed for their whole lifetime in this work. As the body begins to decay the eagles come down. The skeleton remains for about three months and then is buried in a valley.

Possibility Venus of Milo Never Had Arms

It may be some consolation to art lovers throughout the world, who have wondered in what position were the missing arms of the famous Venus de Milo statue in the Louvre, to learn that even the ancients themselves were perplexed on this point, according to a letter to the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Doctor Edde, a French physician, has just made known that during a recent visit to Egypt he came into possession of a small bronze statuette of the same period as the Venus de Milo. This statuette is an exact copy of the famous Venus, and like the original, it has no arms. Doctor Edde therefore concludes that the Venus de Milo never at any time had arms, and he believes that the sculptor, when he had carved out of stone such a divine form, gave up all idea of adding arms.

When the Venus de Milo was discovered on the island of Milo a large reward was offered to anyone who could find the arms, but, in spite of extensive search, nothing was discovered.

For Umbrella Protection

A well-known business man had a bad habit of losing umbrellas, and as they were usually expensive ones, he hit upon the happy idea of having his telephone number engraved on the handle. Since then he lost his umbrella half a dozen times, but owing to the telephone number he has always recovered it. The finder does not have to send it back; he rings up the number and the owner gladly calls for it. If the finder is dishonest he will not feel comfortable with that tell-tale number, and if he himself loses it, as ten to one he will, a more honest person will eventually inform the original owner. The latter, of course, will know nothing of the umbrella's adventures, if only the umbrella could talk!

The Earnest Man

The earnest men are so few in the world that their very earnestness becomes at once the badge of their nobility; and, as men in a crowd instinctively make room for one who seems eager to force his way through it, so mankind everywhere open their ranks to one who rushes zealously toward some object lying beyond them.—Dwight.

THE OFFICE CAT

(By Junius.)

Reuben: "Longfellow said that in this world a man must be either anvil or hammer."

Blyn: "He is wrong. Some men are neither: they are merely bellows."

You really don't believe in free speech. Unless you can listen while opposition talks.

No gentleman will wear his hat while kissing a lady says a writer on etiquette and now we know what killed the iron rimmed derby.

Didn't you like that clerk you discharged?

Very much, but my customers were suspicious of his weighing. They all knew that he used to be an iceman.

Man can learn almost everything except to look dignified while carrying bundles of dry goods.

You've got to hand it to grandma for having her hair bobbed.

Yes, she may be old in years, but she's got a young head on her shoulders.

Good Morning and Goodbye.

Like little clouds that meet and pass
Across the azure summer sky,
We hail each other and pass on,
Good morning and goodbye.

Perhaps there is an answering gleam
From lip to lip, from eye to eye,
The instant that we meet and pass—
Good morning and goodbye.

Perhaps our hands brush as we pass,
Our hearts beat fast, we know not why,
Till the great silence rules again,
Good morning and goodbye.

And may there be a friendly smile,
And may there be no frown or sigh
The moment that we meet and shout,
Good morning and goodbye."

It's only a question of time until the barber will say, "It's getting a little thin on the top ma'am."

There was a young lady named Florence,
Who for kissing professed an abhorrence,
But when she'd been kissed,
And found what she'd missed,
She cried till the tears came in torrents.

"Here boy," said the man to the boy who was helping him drive a bunch of cattle; "hold this bull a minute will you?"

"No," answered the boy: "I don't mind being a director in this company, but I'm darned if I care to be a stockholder."

I hear you are putting in an oil burner. Rather expensive isn't it?

Yeah, in a way. But it's cheaper than paying last year's coal bill.

Here! What do you mean by feeding that kid yeast cake?

Oh, he just swallowed fifty cents of mine and I'm trying to raise the dough.

She and her loved one had been sitting in the darkened parlor for several hours. The hour was becoming early, when a sleepish voice from above broke the silence. "Young man, you may leave the house."

"Then the loved one replied, "Yes sir, I didn't mean to take it with me."

Statistics show that 4529 men were killed by gas last year. Sixteen inhaled it, 45 lighted matches in it, and 4293 stepped on it.

JOHN J. ROBERTS WAS ARRESTED IN FLORIDA.

John J. Roberts, formerly of No. 106 St. James street, this city, who is alleged to have abandoned his family, was arrested in Florida in December and taken to White Plains where he was placed in the Westchester county jail. He was arraigned before Judge William F. Bleakley on Monday. Judge Bleakley said: "It seems to be a practice of husbands nowadays to leave their wives and children and go to winter resorts. The law does not excuse husbands from failing to support their children." He gave Roberts until Friday to furnish bonds before imposing a jail sentence.

Bronze, the only tool metal known to our ancestors of 5,000 years ago, was invented independently in both the Near East and by the Peruvian Indians.

A PARTNER OF SUNLIGHT
Cod-liver oil has aptly been called the partner of sunlight. Both out of Nature's storehouse of energy are of supreme importance to a child with rickets.
Scott's Emulsion

Keep your boy or girl out in the sunlight and give them Scott's Emulsion everyday—regularly!

FOREIGN ATHLETES TO COMPETE HERE

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Jan 16.—Invasion of America by foreign athletic stars was further complicated today by the expected arrival of Ugo Frigerio, of Italy, and the announcement that Albin Stenroos, of Finland, winner of the Olympic Marathon, planned to visit America in the spring One of the main objectives of Stenroos's promised visited is said to be the annual Boston A. A Marathon on Patriot's Day, April 19.

Frigerio, Olympic walking champion in 1920 and 1924, is expected to land some time today. He will compete with Willie Plant, American champion and Goulding of Canada, former Olympic champion at the Millrose games this month.

FLOWERS IN PLENTY IN MEXICAN MARKET

Profusion of Color Marks Native Selling Places

When in Mexico do as the Mexicans do is a wise rule to follow in regard to rising early in the morning, for if you do not you will miss the most delightful and interesting part of the day. Every one is up at daybreak, and one of the first duties of the housewife is to see about the day's marketing. Unlike many women of our country, she rarely if ever goes to market herself, but prefers to give her orders to her servant.

There is always the market proper, which is under cover, with stalls arranged not unlike those in our markets. This, however, forms but a small part of the whole. All the streets leading to the market have their displays, and the human tide of color moving in and out has an irresistible charm.

The first thing that attracts one's attention upon entering is the flowers, with their riot of color. Violets, the double sweet-scented kind, roses, with long stems and thick, glossy leaves, indescribable in their delicacy of color; exquisite carnations, with dew still on them—all the flowers you can carry and a flashing smile from the vendor for a few cents, says a writer in the New York Herald-Tribune.

Many of the vegetables sold were new to us, especially those of the root variety. The Mexican woman buys her food in small quantities, just sufficient for one day's use I have often seen a woman carrying in her hand one onion, a few carrots and a slice of squash—probably her soup vegetables for one day. Potatoes and tomatoes, although natives of these southern countries, are small and inferior, showing little cultivation We were surprised to see many of our own native fruits displayed; peaches, pears grapes and apples were plentiful but did not compare in flavor with those grown in the North. Mangoes, pineapples and aguacates were at their best and were thoroughly enjoyed.

Here and there about the market Indian women sat cooking over charcoal braseros. Rice, frijoles and chile con carne were dished up in brown glazed bowls, and eaten with strips of tortillas, folded so that they could serve as spoons. Tortillas are flat, thin cakes made of cornmeal and water and fried. Other women sat behind palm mats, upon which were arranged piles of nuts of six or seven each, which they sold for 1 cent a pile. These, with a few seeds and several bunches of herbs, formed their stock in trade, the whole not amounting to more than 20 cents.

Beautiful woven baskets, reed and raffia work of all kinds, for which the Indians of North and South America are famous, delight the tourist. The dyes give brilliant colors of purple, yellow, red and green, which harmonize perfectly with the colors of the fruit and vegetables on all sides.

Cheerful Spirit

Any patient in Klinkerville was lucky who could enlist the services of "Aunty" Scroggins as his nurse.

"Now, you just take that look off your face, won't you?" she commanded a patient who was recovering from typhoid. "You ain't half as sick as you were five weeks ago; let your thoughts 'well on that and let 'em 'well on this: There's lots o' folks outdoors fallin' from the tops o' buildings and getting run into and over by automobiles and contraptions of all sorts, besides those that are yieldin' to temptation o' various kinds and being sent to jail and then to state's prison. And while all these dreadful things are going on outside, what is happening to you? You are getting well at home, in peace and plenty, and what's more, in as handsome a walnut bedstead as there is in all Klinkerville. You let your mind 'well on these things a spell and then you turn over and go to sleep."—Edwin Tarrissee in Judge.

You Tell Him!

Johnson had obtained work in a railway yard and was told to mark some trucks.

"Here's a piece of chalk," said the foreman. "Mark each of 'em eleven."

A little later the foreman came around again to see how the new hand had been getting on. He found him sitting on a bucket regarding a truck thoughtfully. Marked upon it was a large 1.

"What does this mean?" asked the foreman. "Only one truck done, and the number wrong at that. I said eleven, not one."

"I know," said Johnson, "but I couldn't think on which side of the '1' the other '1' goes!"

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Miser Hungry With $14,000

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Apparently penniless, but with a bank account of $14,000, Mrs. Anna Shay, 60, who said she came here recently from Boston, was under arrest today following a disturbance she created when selling matches in the streets.

She was suffering from hunger because she would not spend money for food. In the lining of her shabby coat was found $316 in cash, four valuable rings and other jewelry.

Police learned she had lived at No. 30 Pine street, Boston, where, she said, most of her money had been made selling matches to pedestrians.

FIRST DUTCH CHURCH MET IN ANNUAL MEETING THURSDAY

Thursday evening the congregation of the First Dutch Church held its annual meeting, and the reports of the officers showed that the church is now out of debt, with a substantial sum in the treasury. The church choir rendered a musical program and solos were rendered by Mrs. Benjamin W. Johnston and Frank Finley. At the close refreshments were served.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 16.—The stock market made little progress today in regaining the ground lost in the two preceding sessions. Stocks were freely supplied throughout most of the session, and sizable rallies in any of the prominent speculative leaders was a signal for heavy selling.

There were plenty of buying orders just "under the market." Trading was dull on reactions and sales were mostly in small blocks.

There was little disposition to take losses on stocks bought at the high levels of Tuesday and Wednesday and comparatively little shrinkage in prices of the independent oil shares, the recognized leaders in that movement.

The reactionary tendencies extended through to the bond market, the foreign exchange market and to a smaller degree, the cotton market. Grain was the first to show a recovery.

The standard railroad, industrial, motor, equipment stocks were inactive rather than weak.

The bears had the best success with the specialty stocks and high priced industrials which have moved the most swiftly in the upward direction over the last few weeks and which Wall Street believed "entitled" to reaction if for nothing more than technical reasons. They were aided by the spread of commission house advice to customers to take profits and await reaction before buying new lines. Heavy selling broke out in the fourth hour and the whole market was heavy and reactionary.

Panic Follows Chicago Fire

Gas Tank Blows Out Front of Warehouse and Starts Fire—Oil and Turpentine Imperil Lives.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—A terrific explosion which is believed to have killed at fewest two persons and injured more than 50, wrecked a two story warehouse of the L. Lewis Varnish Company here today and started a fire which threatened to engulf the whole plant of four buildings.

Two bodies were recovered a short time after the blast by firemen who fought their way through the flames. Possible further explosions of oil and turpentine imperilled their lives.

They were unable to say whether or not more victims were beyond their reach behind the curtain of fire.

Panic followed the blast as hundreds of employes, many of whom had just reported for work, battled each other for exits.

The warehouse contained large tanks of oil, turpentine, gasoline and alcohol. Several explosions followed the initial blast and the entire street in front of the burning building was turned in a river of flame.

The first explosion was caused by the detonation of a large gas tank which was being either loaded or unloaded from a truck. It blew out the entire front of the building.

The driver of a truck, Larry Watson, is dead. His heavy truck was hurled across the street into a vacant lot.

A watchman, Frank Cora, is the other victim found.

Hundreds of windows in other buildings and homes in the neighborhood were broken and sleepers were hurled from their beds.

The damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

Bridge Hung From Trees

According to Popular Science Monthly the longest suspension foot-bridge in the world is across the Quinault river on the Olympic peninsula in Washington state. The bridge is two feet wide and 584 feet long. It is supported at each end by giant fir trees growing on either side of the river. From these are stretched the wire cables holding up the bridge. The cables are also supported by a center pier 34 feet high and resting on rocks in the river bed. This peculiar structure was made for the use of farmers who found it difficult to cross the river with boats in the spring when freshets are high.

Church Class Escapes Flames

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Hancock, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Fifteen children were led from the Methodist Episcopal Church as it burst into flames here last night. The edifice was destroyed, but no lives were lost, although one fireman was injured when the steeple fell. The loss was estimated at $75,000

A little girl discovered a wisp of smoke seeping through the floor and called her father, Clarence Searles. He found the basement a furnace of flames and ran to sound the village fire alarm. The town's four companies responded, but all they could do was to protect adjacent buildings and keep the crowd beyond the danger line.

The children were members of the "King's Herald" class and their room was directly over the place where the fire was discovered. Afterwards they said the room had seemed unusually warm before they left the building.

Society Notes

Atharhacton Club.

On Wednesday afternoon the Atharhacton Club met with Mrs. E. E. Fessenden, who had the paper for the day on "Philosophical Attitude; William Cullen Bryant, Oliver Wendall Holmes." It was an exceedingly interesting paper. Next Wednesday the club will meet with Mrs. King.

Arace-Cellucci.

Thomas Arace of this city and Miss Theresa Cellucci of Hartford, Conn., were united in marriage at St. Andrew's Church, Hartford, Conn., on Thursday morning. Following a reception at Hartford, the newlyweds journeyed to this city, where they were given a reception at the home of the groom, 19 Henry street. An orchestra rendered a dance program during the evening, which was greatly enjoyed until a late hour.

Woolsey-Cole.

Franklin E. Woolsey of Highland avenue and Mrs. Susan Cole of Abruyn streeet were married on January 15 at Brewster, N. Y., by the Rev. Herbert Hazard, pastor of the Brewster Methodist Church. After a honeymoon spent at Brewster, Jersey City and New York, they will be at home after February 1, at a newly furnished apartment at 86 Abruyn streeet. They have a host of friends in this city who wish them happiness.

Birthday Party.

Monday evening a birthday party was tendered John Henion at his home, 246 Catherine street. During the evening games and singing were enjoyed. LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Maurice H. husband of Olive Graham, and son of Marion Crawford and Henry M. Cormack, died Thursday at Port Ewen. Funeral private.

Louise LeMoyne Sullivan, wife of John Sullivan, died at her home in Ellenville, Thursday, January 8. She was the daughter of LeRoy LeMoyne and his wife Lillian Klumpp and was born in Brooklyn, December 4, 1900. Her remains were taken to David M. Clemmons, son of David and Alice Mason Clemmons, of Ellenville, died at his home Monday night after an illness of a year or more. He had been employed by the New York Telephone Company and a severe attack of influenza brought on the disease which resulted in his death. Funeral services were held from the late home Thursday afternoon, at 1:30 o'clock.

Mary Rebecca Van Gelder, widow of Lucius Robertson Doty, who was a former postmaster and drygoods merchant at Catskill, died in that village Monday afternoon, aged 76 years. She was the mother of Lucius H. Doty of this city, vice-president of the A. R. Newcombe Oil Corporation and secretary of the Hudson Valley Oil Corporation, office 10 Converse street. Funeral was held at Christ's Presbyterian Church, Catskill, his afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Ida O'Neill, widow of James T. O'Neill, died at her home in Ellenville Sunday, January 11. Funeral services were held from St. Mary's church Thursday morning, with interment in the Ellenville cemetery. Deceased was the daughter of Joseph Yoeman, a native of Ireland, and was born in Brooklyn, in 1872. She is survived by four sons, J. Edward, Jerome, Vincent and Lawrence O'Neill. She also leaves five sisters living in Brooklyn. Her husband died in 1908.

Mrs. J. Arthur Clum of Washington avenue, Saugerties, died in the Kingston City Hospital on Wednesday evening, aged 52 years. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Clifford Van Etten, and a son, Earl H. Clum. Mrs. Clum was an active member of the Wesleyan Methodist Church and a member of Emmanual Chapter, No. 517, O. E. S., of Saugerties. Funeral Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence in Saugerties, with interment in Mountain View Cemetery.

Fritz Erhart Kramel died at his home in Ellenville, Sunday, January 11. Funeral services were held from St. Andrew's Church Wednesday. Mr. Kramel was a native of Germany, where was born May 28, 1860, the son of Joseph Kramel. For many years he was a resident of Newark, N. J., but removed to Ellenville some years ago seeking improvement of his health. He is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Ida Henninger of Ellenville, one son, Frederick Kramel, of Newark, and a daughter, Marie, wife of Haymond T. Nash of Newark. Another son, Charles, met death while with the forces of the A. E. F. in France.

William Elliot Wilcox, 77, who has lived most of his life in Highland, died at his home Thursday. He was taken ill suddenly last Monday. Mr. Wilcox started his mercantile business sixty years ago and retired from active business about five years ago. Besides his mercantile business, Mr. Wilcox was head of the firm of Wilcox & Carpenter, undertakers. Mr. Wilcox was the only undertaker in Highland until he took Mr. Carpenter as a partner. He was a member of the Masons, Knights of Pythias, Highland Chamber of Commerce and a noble grand of the Odd Fellows. Two sons and one daughter survive. The sons are Howard E. Wilcox of Highland and the Rev. William H. Wilcox, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Chester, N. Y. The daughter is Mrs. A. J. Schamerhorn of Michigan.

Stephen Gray, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Rochester Center, died at his home Friday, January 9, in his 85th year, after a comparatively brief illness. A devoted husband, father, and grandfather, and a kind neighbor, the deceased will be greatly missed. The widow, who before marriage April 2, 1870, was Hannah Bessmer, survives, together with one son and two daughters, Howard and Mrs. Eli J. Crawford of Rochester Center, and Mrs. George Mertine of Napanoch. The funeral, which was in charge of the Rev. Ambrose Quick, a boyhood friend of Mr. Gray, was held at Tabasco, Tuesday, January 13, at 2 o'clock. The services were largely attended and the beautiful and numerous floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which he was held. Mr. Gray was a member of the Kerhonkson Methodist Church.

James Monroe Dart died Monday, January 5, at Roxbury, Delaware county, aged 86 years. He was a veteran of the Civil War, enlisting as a private in the 134th Infantry and served until the disbandment of the Army. He rose rapidly in rank and when discharged was captain of Company E. After leaving the Army he entered the employ of the Newark Lime and Cement Company, and soon became manager of the plant at Ponckhockie. In 1870 he entered the New York Homeopathic Medical College, graduating in 1871 with high honors. For a year he practiced his profession at Roxbury, going from there to Elizabeth, N. J. In 1881 he removed to Salt Lake City, Utah, where he resided until September last when he returned to Roxbury. In 1885 he married Olive S. Youngman of Delaware county, who died July 1, 1922, and who was buried in Roxbury. There were no children. Two brothers survive, Reuben of Round Grove, Ill., and Edward of Helper, Utah. Funeral was held at Roxbury, Wednesday, January 7, services being conducted by the Rev. H. S. Van Woert, assisted by the Rev. George F. Wells.

Michael J. Fanning, a well known and very popular young man, died at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital in this city, Thursday afternoon. He had been a patient at the hospital for over three years and occasionally made short visits to the upper part of town where he was welcomed by many friends upon whom he called. For some time Mr. Fanning was employed as a night clerk and later as captain of the bell boys at the Hotel Stuyvesant where by the genial manner and happy disposition he made many friends among the traveling public, and was a valued employe by reason of his cheerful willingness to care for the work with which he was entrusted. He was 34 years of age, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fanning of Stony Hollow. His mother died when he was two years of age, his father who had been engaged in the bluestone quarrying business and later owned a general store and small hotel, dying several years ago. Mr. Fanning is survived by an aunt in New York, Mrs. Margaret McCarthy, who was at his bedside when he died. He was a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. E., and of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church. The Elks' funeral service will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Funeral Chapel of A. Carr & Son, and the body will lie in state there tonight where friends wishing to view the remains may do so. Funeral Saturday morning, January 17, at 10 o'clock from the Funeral Chapel, thence to St. Joseph's Church where at 10:30 a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Mary's cemetery.

WOMEN TO BUILD INDIAN MUSEUM

Curios and Historical Relics to Be Gathered From Tribes in Oklahoma.

Waurika, Okla.—An elaborate Indian museum is contemplated by a woman's organization, the Sorosis club of Waurika. The idea was conceived by club members in discussing plans for a public library, which already the club has founded and developed to probably the largest in any town of 3,000 population in the state. Architect's drawings are being made for a large building that will house both the library and the museum.

Indian curios and historical mementoes are to be gathered from over the Chickasaw and Choctaw nations and from the former reservation of the Kiowa, Comanche, Apache, Caddo and Wichita Indians. The club regards Waurika as geographically well located for the project, for the town sits astride the line that once separated the Chickasaw nation and the Kiowa and Comanche reservations. Once it was half wet and half dry. Once part of it was in Indiana territory and part in Oklahoma territory, the latter part being in the region that was opened to settlement in 1901.

Indians Are Interested.

The club in the last few years has accumulated a building fund that amounts to more than $1,400. It expects to ask for contributions from local persons and from wealthy Chickasaw and Choctaw Indians. Scores of the latter have grown rich from oil development and some of the wealthiest have taken the keenest interest in the enterprise.

No Indians of the Middle West have shown a greater pride of ancestry or rejoiced more over the rise in politics, religion, business and society of its members.

In receiving donations and relics from the Kiowas and Comanches, the club will get in touch with the relatives of the late Quanah Parker, last recognized chief of the Comanches, the relatives of Chief Lone Wolf of the Kiowas, and the few members left of the little band of Apaches that, with Geronimo, were prisoners of war for a number of years at Fort Sill. This quest also will lead the club into the homes and ranches of the big cattlemen, who once held the Indian reservation under a grazing lease and made the first contracts with Indians to occupy the reservation.

Has 3,500 Volumes.

Mrs Frank Beaumann, now of Pawhuska, widow of an early state senator from Waurika, was one of the founders of the Sorosis club and the founder of the library. The club has about 3,500 volumes in the library. It is maintained by membership fees and revenue derived from annual dinners and bazaars. The library board consists of Mrs C. L. Phelan, Mrs. E. B. Ellis, Mrs. L. C. Clark and Mrs. Gail Durham, the latter being librarian. The club has 25 members. The only charter member remaining is Mrs. W. H. Gresham. A book shower in 1909 provided a nucleus for the library. Home-talent plays brought in the first money for book purchasing.

Orthodoxy

The orthodox Jew is bigoted and austere. He is a glutton for pain and sorrow. He likes to brood and pity himself. He has no instinct for the joy of living and disapproves of such a trait in others.

But he does not take life indifferently; neither is he bumptious about it. He has strength of character and is able to thrive in the face of adversity. He believes in work. He is seldom a drunkard and eats with prudence, and clean food. He is a man of spiritual ideals and a moral man. He loves law and order and seldom gets into the criminal class.—Sonya Levien, in Hearst's International

U. S. Army Improves Artillery Horses

New York. — Notwithstanding the enormous use of motor transportation in modern armies, the horse still is an important factor in army organization; and as long as the army exists there will be a demand for suitable mounts, says a recent issue of the United States Army Recruiting News.

The United States probably raises the best artillery horses and the best mules in the world. The Recruiting News points out that this does not hold true with respect to the riding or cavalry horse.

"For such an army as ours the peace-time requirements are a more or less negligible factor in the horse market, but a great number of riding horses would be needed immediately in case of an emergency," says the writer.

"Were such an emergency to arise tomorrow, great difficulty would be experienced in procuring a very considerable number of suitable mounts, for the army requires a fast riding animal possessing endurance and intelligence and with a great weight-carrying ability."

Battleship Shoots Plane From Explosive Catapult

Bremerton, Wash.—The first airplane to be successfully shot from an explosive catapult on a battleship, according to navy officers here, was hurled into the air at a speed of 55 miles an hour from the U. S. S. Mississippi.

Fourteen pounds of smokeless powder was used to shoot the airplane piloted by Lieut. L. C. Hayden and accompanied by W. M. Fellers, representative of the navy aviation department at Washington, from the forward turret of the battleship without a noticeable trace of a jerk or shock. Dummy weights were used in tests before the plane was released with its two passengers.

Navy officials said the airplane used was the only one of its kind yet constructed. It differs slightly from airplanes catapulted off a ship by compressed air devices.

Legend Traces Hyacinth to Sorrow of Apollo

The wild hyacinth was originally found in Greece and Asia Minor. The ancient Greeks had a story about its origin to the effect that one day the god Apollo was playing a game of quoits with a young mortal, Hyacinthus, of whom he was very fond, when Zephyrus, the god of the west wind, passed by. Zephyrus was jealous of Apollo and blew the latter's quoit aside, and caused it to strike Hyacinthus and inflict a mortal wound. In his memory Apollo caused these beautiful and fragrant clustered blossoms to spring from the fallen drops of the youth's blood.

The hyacinth was brought to western Europe in the Sixteenth century, and extensively cultivated by Dutch horticulturists. The original blue and purple blossoms were varied to numerous shades of pink, rose, yellow, scarlet and pure white.—Kansas City Star.

Opportunities in China

Here are a few reasons that China is the land of opportunity for foreigners:

Electricity is just "coming in." In the past ten years 100 electric power plants have been built. Think for a moment of the electrical machinery and supplies used in America and then imagine, if you can, what will be needed to outfit a nation of 400,000,000.

The United States has 265,000 miles of railway; China has 7,000. When China begins in earnest to develop her immense resources transportation will call for enormous quantities of supplies and equipment.

The country is one of the world's largest fields for graduates of American and European technical schools. They will be needed to help China build railways, highways, water works, factories, power plants and river and harbor works.

And, with highways, will come the demand for automobiles.

Had Many Occupations

The Nobel prize winner in literature for 1924, Wladislaw Reymont, the Polish writer, started life as a telegraph operator in a small railroad station. Later he joined a traveling theatrical company and then drifted to other occupations, at one time being a railroad worker and another a farm hand. He once went to the famous Polish cloister at Czestochowa, intending to become a monk. His first stories were published in magazine form in 1896. His most famous work, [illegible] "Peasants," issued in four volumes—"Autumn," "Winter," "Spring" and "Summer"—has been translated into all the European languages. M. Reymont is wealthy and has an estate near Posen.

Propeller for Skiers

Motorized skiing is a novel sport recently made possible by means of a small air propeller driven by a light motor that is strapped on the back of the skier, says Popular Science Monthly. The invention, from Germany, is said to enable an experienced skier to travel on the level at high speed. The propeller is started and stopped by a pneumatic device similar to that which operates a camera shutter.

How to Win a Man

"A man longs for your love until you have given it to him—after that not only does he cease to desire your love, but frequently ceases to love you also. Moral—Never show him that you love him—he'll be much happier if you don't."

"A man can be clumsy, stupid, ugly and base, and yet have the eyes of a beautiful woman follow him adoringl, about a room full of attractive people. Heaven knows what the explanation is!"

"No wife should try to keep her husband at home during the evenin. Take a cub from a club and you get 'ell."—"Here Man," by Honor Bright

How True!

"What's the difference between a luxury and a necessity?"

"In these days all luxuries are necessities."

Grows 500,000 Grains From One Wheat Seed

Paris—Making 500,000 grains of wheat grow from one in a year and a half was cited in the dusty debate of the chamber of deputies on agriculture recently as a laboratory accomplishment, rather putting in the shade the old adage about making two leaves grow where one grew before.

This scientific achievement was used by Deputy Compere Morel to show how valuable science could be to the farmer.

France has a back-to-the-farm movement. Before the war more than half the population was rural. It was shown by various speakers, and now only a third of the people cultivate the soil. And meantime the wheat shortage is worrying economists and politicians, for the reason that bread, the standard of the Frenchman for the cost of living, goes up in price constantly.

In comparing practice with possibility M. Compere-Morel said the farmer, on an average, grew only 25 grains of wheat from one.

Is New Relic

Nashville.—One of the latest relics received by the state department of archives, to go into the new state museum in the War Memorial building, is an old fashioned wooden lock from one of the doors of the first house occupied by Andrew Jackson when he came to Tennessee. The house, known as the Dismukes place, at Hadley's Bend, is being razed to make way for the erection of the Du Pont silk fibre plant.

Cost of Living in Madrid

A study has recently been made showing the normal needs of living for a working man of the lower classes and his family in Madrid. The budget is made on the basis of a family of five, father, mother and three children, between the ages of three and thirteen, says United States commerce reports. The total budget is shown at 5,254 pesetas for the year, which amounts at the current exchange rate (approximately $0.136 to the peseta) to $723. Of this amount $407 is allotted to food, $57 to housing, $118 to clothing and $81 to miscellaneous expenses. The amount of the budget, however, considerably exceeds the salary of the majority of the laborers and the standard of living is actually somewhat lower.

Wasted Effort

He was sitting at his desk in a downtown office, says the Detroit News. Directly back of him sat another man at another desk, silent, busy. After an hour a wadded-up newspaper struck the first gentleman in the back of the head. "What's the use? What's the use?" the thrower was saying. "I got a cross-word puzzle about half worked out and find there is a mistake in the printing of it."

LOST RUM RUNNER WAS BUILT FOR SPAIN'S KING

Guilia, Sunk Off Coast of California, Had Romantic Career During Forty Years.

San Pedro, Cal.—With the sinking of the rum ship Guilia off the coast of northern California recently, it was revealed here that the vessel had a history of romance and adventure and was said once to have been owned by a king of Spain. Here is her history as told on "the beach":

When built 40 years ago for the Spanish king, the graceful clipper yacht, equipped with gold fittings and priceless draperies, was the envy of European royalty.

From the service of the king the vessel passed to that of an English merchant prince, then successively to war service, to a band of British adventurers who called her the Frontiersman, and finally, after the adventurers were bankrupt at San Pedro, into the liquor trade. She was not wanted by the legitimate lines of shipping, because she was a coal-burning vessel on an oil-burning coast.

Her decks equipped with machine guns to keep away robbers, she sailed for Havana under the new name of Guilia. Returning from Cuba, the Guilia ran out of fuel off the west coast of Mexico. Her cabin was torn down and fed to the boiler fires and, as a last resort, part of her rum cargo was fed to the flames a bottle at a time.

At Ensenada, Lower California, 35 tons of coal were obtained, and the crew prayed that this fuel would take them to Vancouver. But her progress was retarded by a storm and again the Guilia ran out of coal. She founded at sea, a forbidden visitor to the nearby California shores which alone could give her aid.

The one-time royal clipper yacht went to the bottom, an abandoned rum runner, scuttled by her crew, reports say. All the members of the crew were rescued by a passing ship and brought to San Francisco.

Fire Board Buys Truck and Hose

At a special meeting of the board of fire commissioners Wednesday evening it was voted to purchase a one-ton Stewart truck with special body for the use of Fire Alarm Superintendent Marshall Miller. The truck will be purchased of Southard & Beichert, Inc., local agents in this city. The commissioners also purchased 1,000 additional feet of fire hose.

British Passport Cost Cut to Nominal Fee

London.—The expenses and exasperations of postwar travel with passports are gradually being reduced for everybody except Americans.

Beginning December 1, British subjects for only 7s 6d, can obtain passports valid for five years from the date of issue.

No visas at all will be required for visiting most of the continental countries, to which the English go in large numbers. The Briton simply puts his $1.75 passport in his pocket and crosses the channel. For an extra 5s, he can have his passports extended to ten years.

His lot is a lucky one compared to that of the American traveling abroad. First of all, the American must pay his own government $10 to get a passport which expires in 12 months and cannot be extended for a period longer than two years from the date of issue. Then for each country he visits, except Switzerland and Belgium, he must pay another $10 for a visa.

The American is merely an innocent bystander suffering from a little game of retaliation against his government.

When the United States began charging $10 for visas to visit America, foreign nations, instead of turning the other cheek, gave the Yankee wallet a wallop by charging Americans $10 each to cross their frequent frontiers.

As not infrequently happens, Europe comes out ahead in this little game.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How to Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 Tablets—60 cents.

Babylon's Dimensions

It is now believed that the ancient city of Babylon was 14 miles square, surrounded by a wall 60 miles in length, 300 feet high, 100 feet broad at the base and wide enough on the top for two chariots to race abreast.

More Fish and Game in Ulster

Ulster County Fish and Game Association Discusses Important Matters at Annual Meeting—Changes Advocated—Association Finances.

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association was held Wednesday evening, January 14, at the supervisors' rooms in the county court house. There was a good attendance and several discussions pertaining to topics of field and stream were entered into by the members. The past year has been a very successful one for the association both financially and socially. The association has carried out an extensive program for the re-stocking of the woods and streams as well as for the protection of the wild life in the county.

Secretary Carlton Preston offered his report, which was read and accepted.

The board of supervisors were extended a vote of thanks from the association for passing the new bounty on foxes. The new bounty as set by the supervisors is $1 for red foxes and $3 for gray or wood foxes.

The association also went on record as favoring a change in the law in regard to the open season for cottontail rabbits. On motion the secretary was authorized to write to the assemblyman and senator from this district and the state conservation commission to the effect that the association was in favor of having the season of cottontail rabbits open on October 15, instead of October 1, as at present. The members of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association feel that by opening the season on October 15 and closing it on January 31, as at present, it would provide better hunting conditions. The majority of the members feel that on October 1 the rabbits are soft, in poor condition and full of vermin, also the open season on Snow-shoe rabbits opens on October 15 and the change in the law might prevent hunters from shooting Snow-shoe rabbits before the season opens. With the open season for cottontails opening at the same time as Snow-shoe rabbits, it would prevent mistakes by hunters, who might shoot Snow-shoe rabbits out of season and be caught and fined. Some hunters do not realize the difference as the law stands at present and unavoidably make the mistake.

A discussion on a change of season for hunting bears was held but no action was taken.

As the closed season on quail expires this year the association went on record as favoring an extension for five years of the closed season in in order to give quail further time to increase in the county. The secretary was authorized to write the assemblyman and senator and the conservation commission asking that the closed season be extended until 1930, a period of five years.

The usual amount of trout, bass and yellow perch will be ordered from the conservation commission to stock the streams. Also the association will have 1,500 pheasant eggs to distribute later in the season for hatching purposes and also a number of live birds will be received for liberation in the county.

It was voted to set aside $100 for the purchase of Hungarian partridges as the association will endeavor to increase the grouse family in the county. The Hungarian partridges are the only birds of this family which can be purchased as no one raises the native rough grouse. If the plan proves to be satisfactory, each year more of the Hungarian type will be purchased and released.

In order to secure large trout for planting in the streams the sum of $300 was set aside. The money will be used to purchase from a hatchery brown and rainbow trout 6 to 7 inches in length so they may be caught this season. Pickerel and large mouth bass of suitable size will also be purchased for the ponds and lakes of the county. By planting large trout in the streams it will immediately make fishing better without waiting for the fingerlings to grow.

The trout purchased will be placed in the Esopus creek, between Cold Brook and Mt. Pleasant, and in the Beaverkill and Watson Hollow streams. Next year other streams in the county will be stocked in a similar manner with large trout.

The association voted to favor the new Conservation bill which will be brought up this year which will combine a hunting and fishing license. The association went on record as favoring this bill provided a fee of not more than $1.25 was charged for the combined license and the money derived from the fee will go direct to the Conservation Commission. The money the Conservation Commission receives from this source the association believes will be included in the bill and go toward purchasing new lands and streams for state parks.

Officers were elected as follows:

President, Leroy Longendyke; vice president, Arthur Davis; secretary and treasurer, A. B. Shufeldt. Three assistant secretaries were also elected as follows: Clyde Wonderly, Carl Preston and Dr. Robert Bayler. The assistant secretaries will look after the distribution of fish and game received.

A vote of thanks was given the outgoing officers for the interest they have taken in the association during the past ten years while they held office. Mr. Bogart and Mr. Preston have both served the association for a long time and retired in favor of younger men although they both will remain actively interested in the association.

During the past season Mr. Preston purchased a set of the du Pont pictures which show the different types of animal life in color. These pictures have been instrumental in settling numerous discussions by sportsmen in regard to various rare animals and birds of the woods which the secretary at times is called upon to pass upon. The pictures show the different types of each family.

The report of the treasurer was received as follows and accepted:

Kingston-Celtic Game Wednesday

"The Battle of a Century" that is what basketball fans are calling the fifth meeting and deciding game of the Original Celtics and the Morgenweekers to be played at the local armory court on Wednesday evening, next.

In the first two meetings this season the local representatives were victorious, in the third and fourth games the Shamrock wearers turned the tables and evened up the score.

Manager Furey will have his team primed for this contest and will bring here his full roster, which includes Beckman, Holman, Lopchick, Barry, Leonard and Dehnert. Just who Manager Morgenweck will use remains to be seen.

Tickets have been selling very fast and a record crowd is expected to view this struggle.

CELTICS LOST TO TRIANGLES 25 TO 15.

FIRE PREVENTION.
Question—When a frame building brnus down, what is left? Answer—The chimney alone, because it is built of brick. Chimneys are built of brick because they are fireproof. Why not construct the whole building of brick, that is Real Fire Prevention. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. When you build, use brick exclusively. There may be a slight increase in first cost, but always a large saving in maintenance. Building brick and sand. TERRY BROTHERS CO. Tel. 1674.

Leonard, King Of Lightweights, Quits the Ring

Champion Retires Because His Mother So Desires and Not For Glory —Now Appearing In Vaudeville.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 16.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, has quit the ring. he announced today "because his mother had begged him not to fight again."

"I am retiring from boxing for the love of my mother," Leonard said.

Leonard became lightweight champion in 1917 when he beat Freddie Welch, He has been one of the most popular champions of all time

Leonard is now appearing in vaudeville. Recently he became seriously ill after collapsing on the stage, but recovered after remaining in bed at his home here for a week or ten days.

In announcing his retirement, Leonary said there was a time when he liked "the glory stuff"—when the people used to say: "There goes Benny Leonard, the champion.

"But," he went on: "I am not retiring for glory. I am retiring for the love of my mother who begged me not to fight again.

"I fought every body the public demanded me to meet. I beat them all in my class. Nobody can say Benny Leonard didn't give all the boys a chance at the title."

Leonard then related how his mother used to read of his fights, of his training, of stories that he had his teeth knocked out, his hands broken or had met with other injuries.

"Mother would sit crying and trembling saying: 'My poor Benny'" continued the retiring champion.

"My fight with Tendler in 1923 was to have been my last. My mother had been very ill. All of us were greatly worried over her condition. One day she called the family together. She made me promise I would never fight again. Then she said she would have nothing to worry about.

"So that's why I'm quitting now —for mother's sake."

Elimination Contests.

Announcement of Leonard's retirement from boxing will cause the holding of a lightweight champion elimination tournament to determine his successor is the opinion expressed in boxing circles today. A similar tournament was conducted by the New York athletic commission upon the withdrawal of Johnny Dundee from the featherweight championship. Louis Kid Kaplan of Meriden Conn., being the ultimate survivor. Kaplan is recognized as champion here but many localities have not concurred.

Leonard's retirement leaves the field open to several of the leading contenders, who include Sid Terris, New York; Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill.; Jack Bernstein, Yonkers, N. Y., Tommy O'Brien, Milwaukee; Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh, although, doubt is expressed that the latter can make the weight.

WILBUR WON CONTEST AT HIGHLAND FALLS

Tuesday evening the Holy Name Club of Wilbur defeated the Sacred Heart Five of Highland Falls in Highland Falls by the score of 23 to 13. Amateur rules were played. The Sacred Heart Five led at the first quarter 9 to 1, but the Wilbur boys cut this down, leaving the net at the first half trailing 10 to 9.

In the second half Joe Murphy led the attack that completely took the Sacred Heart Five off their feet. The club commends the Sacred Heart team and management for the fine way they were taken care of while in Highland Falls.

The Holy Name Club has games pending with St. Mary's and St. Peter's Juniors of Kingston. The score:

Delaney Ranks Slight Favorite

Over Tiger Flowers in 12 Round Bout Tonight at Garden—Neither Fighter Is Robust—Winner To Meet Greb.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 16.—In the fond expectation, typical of this enlightened day and age, that one or the other of the principals would be carried out of the ring, feet first, the greatest crowd of the indoor boxing season will grace the occasion at the duly advertised meeting of Tiger Flowers and Jack Delaney at Madison Square Garden tonight. You couldn't keep them away with a board of health hand bill.

Flowers, a polite colored gent in every day life, suddenly reverts to the berserk ferocity of the African jungles when the time-keeper rings his bell. Delaney is a natty boxer with a crushing right hand punch. Neither man seems to be able to laugh off a punch. The inference is obvious.

It is that tonight's proceedings have slight chance of lasting the scheduled limit of 12 rounds and, therefore, the merry villagers have acted accordingly. As early as yesterday morning, there wasn't a reserved seat for sale at the Garden.

"Get away" said the box office man to prospective purchasers in that courteous way of his. They got.

That means that somewhat less than 14,000 souls will be in the house when they tenderly pick either Flowers or Delaney from the floor tonight. The writer has a bright idea that it will not be Delaney, although in the language of the poets, the boys are picking Flowers.

He however, seems to have more fragility of the chin than Delaney although neither is exactly a granite monument in this respect. Delaney's record shows knockouts at the hands of Augie Ratner and Young Fisher, indicating that Jack is far from robust or the gentlemen in question wore saddles instead of gloves. Neither can punch his way out of a paper bag.

Flowers has stopped the last five or six men he has met but previous to this carnal seance, suffered six knockouts, no less. Two were scored by Kid Norfolk, another by Lee Anderson and a fourth by the aged Sam Langford. There must be something humorous about a chin like that.

Yet the winner is morally certain of meeting Harry Greb for the middleweight title and for all I know, may be a champion in prospect. Greb has known better days.

K. H. S. QUINTET AT ST. STEPHEN'S TONIGHT

The Kingston High School basketball team left for Annandale this afternoon where they will oppose the St. Stephen's College second team this evening. Coach O'Leary expects to meet a good team and is taking ten men with him. The team has been going through some stiff practice this week and are in good condition. They ought to make a good showing against the college boys. Coach O'Leary will probably start DuBois and Keleher forwards, Tetley center, Cranston and Schultz guards. With Schultz back in the line-up the defense of the high school team ought to be greatly strengthened.

Nurmi Smashes 3 More Records

Flying Finn Meets Joie Ray Tonight at Chicago—Will Compete In 2,000 Metre Race at Fordham Games Saturday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 16.—With three more world's records salted away in the athletic library, Paavo Nurmi today is speeding west to Chicago, where, tonight at the annual games of the Illinois A. C. he will give Joie Ray one more chance to head him at the tape. The two great runners will meet in a special mile and three quarters race, and from what it saw of Nurmi at the Municipal games last night, New York is convinced that Joie is in for another beating.

Winning away off by himself, Nurmi established new records for a mile and three quarters, 3,000 metres and one mile and seven-eights. He was caught at the first distance in 7:55 3-5, the second in 8:26 4-5 and the third in 8:23. The former records were the property of Ray himself, Nurmi ran without adequate competition, Willie Ritola being beaten by 75 yards and Verne Booth, Ilmar Prim and Gunnar Nillson being lapped. Hardly more than an hour later, Nurmi was on a train for Chicago.

He will return here tomorrow night to compete in a 2,000 metre race at the Fordham games, completing an exciting schedule which calls for three races and the travelling of nearly 2,000 miles within 51 hours.
